VOL. 3, NO. 194 PHONE 723-8200 WARREN, PA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1968 205 PENNA. AVE., WEST ONE SECTION 18 PAGES 10c

WEATHER
Cloudy and mild today and tonight, high in low 60s. Wednesday, cloudy, little change in temperature, showers likely.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER
Variable cloudiness and mild today and tonight, high today low 60s, low tonight in the low 40s. Probability of precipitation 10 per cent today, and 20 per cent tonight. Winds east to southeast, eight to 15 miles per hour. Fog late tonight and Wednesday morning. Wednesday, mostly cloudy, little change in temperature, showers likely. Monday's weather: high 58, low 32, no precipitation, river level 3.0 feet and rising.

KINZUA DAM REPORT
Pool level 1301.38 feet (desired summer pool level 1328 feet; maximum level 1365 feet). Upstream water 55 degrees, downstream water 51 degrees; reading at Warren gauge 2.92 feet and falling.

WARREN COUNTY
Warren County voters will find three contests of special interest when they go to the polls—contests for State Senate and Assembly and U.S. Congress.

A new committee to review disciplinary cases is established at the monthly meeting of the Warren County School District.

The Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council has received a $71,220 grant to finance its Head Start program for the school year 1968-69.

PENNSYLVANIA
The president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers demands $1,000 to $2,000 salary increases for the city's 3,400 teachers.

Pennsylvania, hotly contested by Democrats and Republicans, could be a decisive factor in who wins the presidency. Contestants mount last-ditch appeals.

Democratic Sen. Joseph M. Clark and Republican Richard Schweiker are optimistic on election over the results of their battle for a U.S. Senate seat for Pennsylvania.

The Sindlinger poll says that among voters who support President Johnson's bombing halt in North Vietnam, more favor Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey for president than his two rivals.

THE NATION
The presidential candidates close out the 1968 campaign with a flurry of broadcast appeals and with the knowledge that Tuesday's balloting by some 70 million voters may produce no winner.

A 90-year-old law could prevent George Wallace from choosing the next president in the event of a deadlock in the Electoral College.

The stakes are higher than usual in the congressional races because of the possibility the House may have to choose the president.

Republicans file a series of tardy campaign committee financial reports and then announce they are spending at least $17 million on the 1968 election.

THE WORLD
The woman revolutionary leader of the Viet Cong delegation to the peace talks vows the war will go on as long as the United States "props up the puppet administration" in Saigon.

Army troops and Bedouin fighters loyal to King Hussein crush an uprising in Jordan by rebellious Palestine Commandos.

SPORTS
Doug Poust, a Warren native and University of Pittsburgh student, is $15 richer this week after winning the TMO Grid Contest. Entry blank and rules for this week's contest, the last of the series, are inside today's sports pages.

The TMO recently revised its procedure for printing scores of area bowlers. For confused keggers, there's an explanation of the new system.

The Washington Senators may be a last-place baseball club, but they certainly don't come cheap. Two businessmen made arrangements to buy the club, and the price tag is a hefty ten million bucks plus.

Boston's AFL Patriots have their woes, and the chief one is the small stadium seating capacity. If Beantown doesn't enlarge it or — preferably — build a new one, the Pats may be on the move soon.

What's happening in pro basketball? Check today's sports pages for ABA and NBA standings, plus some information on the Piper and Warrior victories last night.

FIRE DESTROYS BUILDING
Warren firemen used all equipment to put out the fire at this old building, on the Conewango ave. side of the Fifth ave. bridge, when flames from a bonfire jumped to the building shortly before noon Monday. The building, obtained by the borough through eminent domain from Frank Mitchell, was burned to the ground. Firemen were at the scene almost four hours. It is believed the building caught fire when winds from the bonfire shifted, setting the building aflame. (Photo by Mahan)

Three Contests of Special Interest to County Voters

Warren County voters will find three contests of special interest when they go to the polls today.

Albert W. Johnson, the Republican incumbent, is running for re-election to the U.S. House of Representatives. He is opposed by Alan R. Cleeton, on the Democratic ticket, and Richard H. Buckle, Constitutional Party.

Committee to Review Disciplinary Cases Set Up
By NOEL DODD
A new committee to review disciplinary cases was established at the regular monthly meeting of the Warren County School District.

Committee members are John E. Eberly, Henry A. Peterson and Kenneth Franklin. Dr. Thomas K. Barratt, superintendent of schools, said the board has always had the authority to create such a committee under section 1318 of the School Code, but until now never found it necessary.

In other action, Nore E. Luvison, director, Buildings and Grounds, reported on the district's construction projects.

"The Pennsylvania and Columbia Gas companies have completed pipeline relocation and installation of high pressure transmission lines at the Allegheny Valley Elementary School project, Clarendon.

"Plans for the package sewage treatment plant have been submitted to the regional office of the Dept. of Health and it is hoped that bids for this project can go out by mid-January," Luvison said.

The buildings and grounds director said the Eisenhower High School construction project is going into the final completion phase with all contractors near 90 per cent complete.

Dr. J. Blair Logan, director, Elementary Education, reported to the board that work is beginning on problems concerning the improvement of instruction and why certain children have trouble learning.

"Our teacher aides have been a great help in our large classes, and our librarians aides have improved this vital service," Dr. Logan said.

The board approved bids for snow removal for the school year 1968-69, noting that they are generally the same as last year.

Incentive pay for Mrs. Violet M. Carlett for the 1968-69 school year was approved by the board.

The participation of Mrs. Carmen Livezey, Eisenhower High School, and Floyd Waddell, Youngsville High School on the Middle State Evaluation Committee for the Kane Area Senior High School, was approved.

The following field trips were approved: Mrs. Blance McMunkin's fifth grade class, Russell Elementary School, annual trip to Pittsburgh on or about June 6, 1969; Robert Cizek's sixth grade class, Starbrick Elementary, marine aquarium, Niagara Falls, on or about May 23, 1969.

Revised Shibui Plan Unveiled
The revised architect's rendition of the proposed Shibui Complex in Pleasant Township was unveiled for county officials Monday afternoon at the county planner's office.

The color sketch illustrates every detail of the proposed development. At its last meeting, the Warren County Planning Commission adopted a resolution recommending changing the zoning of the land on which the project will be developed from conservation to a planned development district. The next step requires action by the County Commissioners before a public hearing is scheduled.

Candidates End Election Campaign With TV Blitzes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tumultuous 1968 presidential campaign neared its end Monday with the three candidates directing election eve television blitzes at an electorate so divided that Tuesday's voting might elect no president.

Most surveys and public opinion polls placed Republican Richard M. Nixon ahead in the popular vote with Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey closing fast and Independent George C. Wallace a distant third.

But the possibility remained that Wallace would draw enough votes to keep either Nixon or Humphrey from winning outright the 270 Electoral College votes needed to become the nation's 37th president.

As victory predictions flowed from their camps, Nixon and Humphrey were in Los Angeles for two-hour telecasts on competing networks Monday night.

Wallace, winding up his campaign deep in Dixie, scheduled half-hour appearances on each of the three national television-radio networks on election eve.

Humphrey's running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, joined the Democratic nominee in Los Angeles. The Republican vice presidential nominee, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, campaigned in Charleston, W. Va., and Richmond, Va., while Wallace's partner, retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, appeared in Texas, Utah and California.

The presidential contenders will return to their homes to await the election outcome. Humphrey in Waverly, Minn., Nixon in New York and Wallace in Montgomery, Ala.

A turnout of nearly 73 million voters is forecast for Tuesday. This would be about 81 per cent of the nation's registered voters and would top the record of 71 million votes cast in 1964 when President Johnson swept to a landslide victory.

Besides the presidency and vice presidency, all seats in the House of Representatives plus 34 Senate seats are up for election. Voters in 21 states also will elect governors.

Stakes Higher Than Usual In Congressional Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stakes are higher than usual in Tuesday's congressional elections as a tightening presidential race increases the possibility that the House may have to pick the winner.

Final surveys indicate the Democrats are likely to keep control of both the House and Senate, but the constitutional arithmetic for setting inconclusive presidential elections doesn't add up that way.

When no presidential candidate receives a majority of the electoral vote the House acts, but with each state casting only one vote, based on which party controls the state delegation.

Democrats could retain numerical control of the House but still not control the necessary 26 state delegations to name a president. In fact, if Republicans pick up the gains they are looking for, that is just what would happen.

In the outgoing 90th Congress Democrats had the edge in 29 delegations, the Republicans controlled 18 and 3 were evenly divided. In 18 states the Republicans have a chance to change the balance. If they succeed they will control 22 states in the 91st Congress, the Democrats will have 20 and 8 will be even.

Thus neither party would have 26 votes and the nightmare possibilities raised by the failure of either Republican Richard M. Nixon or Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey to win at least 270 electoral votes would be increased.

Jordanian Troops Crush Attempted Rebellious Uprising

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Army troops and Bedouin fighters loyal to young King Hussein crushed an attempted uprising Monday by a rebellious unit of Palestine commandos after several hours of street fighting, the government announced.

Jordanian army tanks and armored cars ringed this capital and patrolled its narrow streets hours after the main fighting died out. Isolated clashes persisted after dusk but these apparently resulted from a mopping up by the loyalist forces.

There was no announcement of casualties. (Arrivals from Amman to Damascus, the capital of neighboring Syria, reported 16 persons had been killed and 40 others wounded on both sides in the fighting.)

The U.S. Embassy in Amman said no Americans were harmed.

Hussein himself went on the air to broadcast an emotional victory announcement. He accused one particular commando unit, the "Victory Phalanges" headed by a former Syrian army major, Taher Dablan, of precipitating the outbreak.

Hussein said the group devoted most of its energies against his monarchy and little against Israel.

It was the most violent confrontation so far between Hussein's moderate, pro-Western government and the commando forces who have turned his kingdom into a base of operations against Israel.

Tanks roared through the streets, shooting in the air soon after the uprising began. Automatic weapons fire crackled in scattered parts of the desert capital perched on seven hills.

Barricades were thrown up and units of Jordan's Arab legion surrounded two refugee areas where demonstrations broke out at daybreak when troops moved in to arrest commando leaders.

In his nationwide broadcast 12 hours after the first firing broke out, Hussein singled out the Victory Phalanges as the group of "paid agents" solely to blame.

In an apparent attempt to keep his restive people and the major commando groups on his side, Hussein promised that guerrilla action against Israel would continue, "purified from these stealthy treacherous elements."

The commandos, some 12,000 strong, have won increasing sympathy and support from Jordan's 400,000 Palestinian refugees in recent months.

The commandos demand an all-out war against Israel to recapture areas west of the Jordan River occupied by the Israelis since last year's June war. They also demand the liberation of all Palestine, part of which has been an Israeli state since 1948.

Warren County voters won't be able to say that this year's election is being run without benefit of clergy.

Two Methodist ministers are candidates for political office. Alan R. Cleeton is the Democratic candidate for Congress. Robert E. Williams is the Prohibition party candidate for the General Assembly.

Mr. Cleeton has been a chaplain at Pennsylvania State University and is on leave of absence.

Mr. Williams is the pastor of the Youngsville Free Methodist Church.

Election Day Dinner
The Warren Kiwanis Club is making today's election a little easier for the lady of the house by serving one of its famed spaghetti suppers from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Warren Area High School. The menu is tasty, the price is cheap and in addition the proceeds from the dinner go to several worthwhile causes.

Carry-outs, with containers provided, will also be available for those who would rather eat at home.

El-Tronics, Inc. To Acquire Casino in Nevada
El-Tronics, Inc. of Warren, says it has agreed in principle to acquire North Shore Club and Casino, Lake Tahoe, Nev., for an undisclosed amount of stock and cash.

Local officials Monday night declined further comment on the transaction.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Clara Morrison

Mrs. Clara Morrison, 78, of RD 2, Tidioute, died at 6:15 a.m. Monday, Nov. 4, 1968, in Hamot Hospital, Erie, after being a patient two days. She was born July 23, 1890, the daughter of William and Clara McGraw, and had lived in the Tidioute area all her life. She was the last surviving member of her family. Her husband, James L. Morrison, preceded her in death, Aug. 27, 1952.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Douglas (Lucille) Smith, Starbuck; Mrs. Robert (Shirley) Francisco, Meadville; Miss Donna Morrison, at home; three sons, James R. Morrison, RD 2, Tidioute; Charles Moss Morrison, Tidioute; and Albert R. Morrison, Warren; 16 grandchildren, nine great grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Raymond W. Arnold Funeral Home, Titusville, from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. Funeral services will be held there at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Tidioute Cemetery. The family has asked that donations be made to the Heart Fund, in lieu of flowers.

Frank Kehrli

Word has been received of the death Sunday, Nov. 3, 1968, of Frank Kehrli, son of the Rev. and Mrs. George Kehrli, Pittsburgh, and grandson of the late Rev. Frank A. Kehrli, well known Sunday School Missionary, former assistant pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Warren, and native of the Warren area.

Frank Kehrli, 21, a veteran of the Viet Nam conflict was killed in an automobile accident late Sunday in Kansas.

Among the survivors are several aunts, uncles and cousins in the Warren area.

Stakes

such cases, but with each senator casting an individual vote.

Only 34 of the Senate's 100 seats are up for election this year and although Republican gains are likely... the Democrats' present edge of 63 seats to 37 for the Republicans is probably too big for the GOP to overcome.

In the House, all 435 seats are to be filled. An Associated Press survey a week before the election showed the Democrats ahead in 231, 13 more than the 218 needed for control. Republicans led in 180, and 24 were regarded as tossups.

The lineup at the end of the 90th Congress was 245 Democrats, 187 Republicans and 3 vacancies. Republican leaders regard a gain of at least 31 seats, which would give them control, as a possibility. But Democrats insist their losses will be far less and see 10 to 15 as all the Republicans will get.

Clouding the picture is the third-party candidacy of George C. Wallace. Only in a handful of states are candidates of Wallace's American Independent party running for the House. The big question, therefore, is what will the Wallace voters do after they cast their presidential ballots?

Another factor that makes predicting the outcome of congressional races hazardous this year is the last-minute halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

President Johnson's decision to stop the bombing should have a more definite impact on those Senate races where Vietnam policy has been a major issue, notably those of Sens. Wayne Morse in Oregon, J. W. Fulbright in Arkansas, Frank Church in Idaho and George S. McGovern in South Dakota.

Of the 34 Senate seats at stake, 23 now are held by Democrats and 11 by Republicans. The Democrats expect to take two away from the Republicans, but the GOP claims it can take as many as 15 from the Democrats.

The seats eyed by the Democrats are in California, where the Republican incumbent, Thomas H. Kuchel, was beaten in the primary election, and Iowa, where Republican Bourke B. Hickenlooper retired.

Republicans see their possibilities for gains in Alaska, Arizona—where Barry Goldwater is trying for a comeback—Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Maryland, Nevada, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota and Wisconsin. Of these, they regard their best bets as Arizona, Florida, Maryland and Ohio.

In the House elections, Cleveland and St. Louis will elect Negro representatives, with the Cleveland winner likely to be Louis A. Stokes, brother of the city's mayor. His Republican opponent, Charles P. Lucas, also is a Negro. Both candidates in the St. Louis district also are Negroes.

Youngsville Council Acts In Favor of Hill Enterprises

YOUNGSSVILLE — In line with provisions of one of a series of recently-amended subdivision ordinances currently awaiting final adoption, Youngsville Borough Council Monday exonerated Hill Enterprises Inc. from obligation to install sidewalks and sanitary sewers along the 2400 feet of frontage on the new east side collector road, unless the Hill property is differently zoned and subdivided.

The motion passed by a vote of 4-1 with Francis H. Kane voting "no."

Hill Enterprises owns the York Mountain Ski-Way. Council acquired right-of-way through the property for the collector street in condemnation proceedings. At its last meeting, Council omitted the property at the request of the owners when changing the zoning classification of other properties on the new road forested.

The Hill property remains classified industrial. Hill has filed suit in the Warren County Court of Common Pleas against the recommendation of a board of viewers awarding them $10,000 for the right-of-way. The jury hearing is scheduled for Nov. 19.

The collector street remains unnamed. Noting that the street had not yet been turned over to the borough, Councilman Hugh Logan suggested the road should not be named until it was accepted. A petition carrying 63 signatures, suggesting the name "Hillside Drive," was filed pending further development.

Borough Manager James Malone reported he had been advised by State Highway department traffic engineers that there were no plans to put more than a stop sign at the Railroad st. intersection with the new Rte. 6 highway. It was felt there was enough right-of-way at the Railroad st. approach for adequate sight distance up and down the highway.

Recalling assertions of state highway engineers William Troxell that a traffic light would be installed, Council decided to continue negotiations for the light.

Two letters were read from Gordon H. Kay regarding resurfacing, maintenance and lighting on Ford st., next to new highway construction. Malone said borough records, dated 1873, indicated that Fourth st. was an ordained road for only the first 390 feet of its length south from East Main st. He said that ordinance had never been changed. The section referred to by Kay was beyond that point.

Attorney William Hill called for an executive session at one point during the four-hour meeting, to report on the status of legal discussion concerning a property registration. Mayor Ernest McGraw swore in Reid Pierson as councilman to fill the unexpired term of Myron Nelson, who resigned because of ill health. The meeting was adjourned until Nov. 18, when the 1969 budget will be among the agenda items.

65,000 Eligible to Vote In Chautauqua County

JAMESTOWN — More than 65,000 eligible voters will go to the polls in Chautauqua County today in what appears to be one of the closest presidential elections in recent years.

In addition to the presidential election, voters are also asked to select a U.S. Senator, an assemblyman, a state senator, a congressman and two coroners. Polls will open in Jamestown's 30 election districts at 6 a.m. and remain open until 9 p.m.

Close contests are expected in the Humphrey-Nixon race in Jamestown, with Third Party candidate George Wallace figuring to finish a very distant third. Straw polls in Jamestown show Humphrey winning by the slightest of margins.

Another race expected to be close is that for 150th District assemblyman between GOP Candidate John W. Beckman of Westfield and Democrat Edmund A. Berndt of Stockton. Both are political newcomers.

Local returns will be posted at Republican and Democratic Headquarters following the closing of the polls.

The public is invited to attend the tallying at either headquarters in downtown Jamestown.

Trucking Firm May Go Out Of Business

JAMESTOWN — Furniture Express Inc. of Jamestown, one of the city's oldest trucking firms, may close its doors after 34 years of service according to an announcement made Monday night by George C. Rindosh, president of the firm.

Rindosh said the action may come because the company and the union cannot reach agreement on a contract. He noted that union members have already rejected a company proposal, and the company refuses to accept the union counterproposal.

In view of the union's position, Rindosh said, "I see no alternative but to close the company's doors." He said he is making immediate plans to liquidate all assets of the company.

Election

Poll-closing hours range from 4 p.m. Tuesday to 2 a.m. EST Wednesday.

While the polls are open, radical students promise demonstrations in big cities across the country.

Some of these same students were responsible for the relentless heckling of candidates during a campaign that revolved around the emotional charged issues of the war in Vietnam and law and order at home.

An Associated Press survey made before President Johnson halted all bombardment of North Vietnam showed Nixon ahead in 24 states with 216 electoral votes. Humphrey had the lead for 21 electoral votes but was gaining ground in many of the 20 states with 262 electoral votes that were rated as toss-ups. Wallace was leading in 39 electoral votes.

The results of two major public opinion polls supported Democratic claims that Humphrey has sliced Nixon's once large lead.

The Gallup Poll and the Harris Survey, showed Nixon ahead by only two percentage points. And the Democratic national chairman, Lawrence F. O'Brien, said this is "a margin the professional pollsters agree makes the election too close to call."

But Republican spokesman Herbert G. Klein said Nixon "is leading substantially in the states we need" to capture 330 electoral votes, well over the 270 required to move into the White House.

Humphrey said Sunday he expects to win with a plurality.

A New York Times survey, meanwhile, listed Nixon as leading in 30 states with 299 electoral votes, Humphrey ahead in eight states and the District of Columbia with 77 electoral votes and Wallace leading in five states with 45 electoral votes. Seven states with 117 electoral votes were rated by the Times as too close to call.

If none of the candidates gets the required 270 electoral votes, the choice of a president could be thrown into the House of Representatives for the first time in 144 years.

But many observers believe that switches among the electors in the days and weeks following an inconclusive election would settle the issue without recourse to the House. The electors cast their votes in their own states Dec. 16.

Nixon has challenged Humphrey to join in asking that the presidency go to the national popular-vote leader if no one gets an Electoral College majority. But Humphrey has said he prefers to let the constitutional system operate with the House deciding the winner.

Nixon has insisted there must be no bargain with Wallace, who rose to power in Alabama as a militant segregationist. But the former Alabama governor has claimed Republicans in some undesignated states have been sounding out his backers about possible Electoral College support for Nixon.

A state-by-state AP survey last week indicated Democrats would control the next House, but by a slimmer margin than their present 245 to 187 edge.

But this would not insure that Humphrey would win any election thrown into the House since each state would have one vote, regardless of its size, and a clear majority of 26 is required to elect. Because of close races, control of several state delegations remains a question mark. In addition, 85 House candidates given a good chance of winning have indicated they would support the popular-vote winner, regardless of party.

The Senate would select the vice president if the Electoral College didn't. And Democrats are favored to keep control of the Senate, though perhaps by a narrower margin than their present 63.37 grip.

The 1968 race for the White House, besides being one of the most turbulent campaigns in recent political history, will go down in the books as one of the most expensive.

Democratic aides said about $12 million is being spent in behalf of the Humphrey-Muskie ticket. Estimates of the outlay for Wallace and LeMay range from $10 million to $20 million, while the Nixon-Agnew spending totals some $20 million.

Estimates on over-all general election campaign spending at all levels run as high as $250 million.

To these totals must be added another $30 to $35 million which these candidates and their unsuccessful opponents spent prior to the nominating conventions.

Facts and Figures On the Election Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the facts and figures on Tuesday's general elections:

President
Democratic nominees are Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for president and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine for vice president.

Republican nominees are former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland for vice president.

American Independent party nominees are former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama for president and retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay for vice president. Ticket appears under various names on all ballots except the District of Columbia, but some list former Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia for vice president.

Eight minor party candidates are also listed on some ballots, including the Socialist Workers party, 19 states; the Socialist Labor party, 13; Peace and Freedom party, 9; Prohibition party, 9; Communist and New parties, 2 each; and Constitution and Universal parties, one each.

Presidential electors, equal to its House and Senate members, will be chosen in each of the 50 states. The District of Columbia, under the 23rd Amendment, will choose three. Total: 538. Needed to win: 270.

If no candidate wins a majority Tuesday, decision will have to be made by the electors, who won't vote until Dec. 16, or, if there is still no majority, by the House of Representatives starting Jan. 6.

In that event, the House would choose a president from among the top three in electoral votes, and the Senate would choose the vice president from the top two. This procedure was used in the 1800 and 1824 elections.

Congress
Senate: At stake: 34 seats of the 100 seats of which 23 are currently held by Democrats. All elections are for a full six-year term starting Jan. 3. Hold-over: 40 Democrats, 26 Republicans. Needed for control: 51 seats, which means Republicans would have to make a net gain of 14.

In 25 contests, incumbents are seeking re-election. Two of these are unopposed, Republican Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont and Democratic Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana.

Other states in which incumbents are running include Alaska, Ark., Colo., Conn., Cal., Hawaii, Idaho, Ill., Ind., Md., Nev., N.H., N.Y., N.C., N.D., Okla., Ore., Pa., S.C., S.D., Utah, Wash., and Wis.

States in which incumbents are not running include Ala., Ariz., Calif., Fla., Iowa, Kan., Ky., Mo., Ohio.

House: At stake: all 435 seats. Current division: 245 Democrats, 187 Republicans, 3 vacancies (2 Democrats, 1 Republican). Needed for control: 218 seats, which means Republican would have to win 31 additional seats for control. Running without opposition are 37 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

Governors
At stake: 21 governorships, of which 13 now are held by Democrats, 8 by Republicans. Hold-overs: 11 Democrats, 18 Republicans.

In 13 states, incumbents are seeking re-election, including Ariz., Ark., Del., Ill., Kan., Mo., Mont., N.M., N.D., R.I., Utah, Wash., and Wis.

States in which incumbents are not running include: Ind., Iowa, N.H., N.C., S.D., Tex., Vt. and W.Va.

Other Offices and Issues
All or part of legislatures are being chosen in 39 states, as well as many other state and local officials.

Some 33 states have referendum or bond issues on the ballot. These include liquor by the drink in Utah, bonus payments for Vietnam veterans in Pennsylvania, and proposals to lower the voting age to 18 in Hawaii and 19 in Nebraska.

Past Elections
In the 28 presidential elections since Republicans first fielded a ticket in 1856, GOP candidates have won 16, Democrats 12. Since 1900, Republicans have won 8 times, Democrats 9 times.

House of Representatives and Senate have been Democratic for the past seven Congresses, since the 1954 midterm elections. Republicans have won Congress only twice in the past 36 years, in 1946 and 1952.

Registration-Voting
Election officials and observers estimated that 90,141,438 Americans, or about 75 per cent of the estimated 121.5 million of voting age, are registered to vote. Of these, some 72,987,527 million, or 81 per cent, are expected to cast ballots. This compares with the previous record turnout of 70,913,673 in 1964.

Poll closing times
Polls in the more than 175,000 precincts or polling units close as early as 4 p.m. EST in some parts of Tennessee, and as late as 2 a.m. EST in western Alaska.

Law Could Keep Wallace From Breaking Deadlock

NEW YORK (AP) — A 90-year-old law could prevent George Wallace from choosing the next president in the event of a deadlock in the Electoral College, Paul Freund, a Harvard professor and leading authority on constitutional law said Monday.

It has been suggested that the former Alabama governor could break such a deadlock by throwing his electoral votes to either Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey or Richard M. Nixon if neither receives the needed 270 votes for victory.

But Freund says the 1878 law — passed as the result of the Hayes-Tilden deadlock in 1878 — places in Congress "the final say whether to honor an electoral vote cast for a candidate other than the candidate of his party."

He said any changes in electoral votes would have to be accepted by both houses of Congress. In addition, he said, any voting changes by members of the Electoral College could be challenged in court.

Past defections have gone unchallenged because their votes were not vital for victory, Freund said.

Freund said the law provides a procedure for challenge of the electoral votes before joint session of Congress. In the present case it would be on Jan. 6, 1969. Any vote not regularly made in any state can be challenged by a congressman or senator.

If the challenge is upheld and the switcher votes are not honored, "then it is possible that the electoral vote will revert to what it was on election night," Freund said.

"Because it would still be deadlocked the House of Representatives would then select the president and the Senate would select the vice president."

Pittsburgh Teachers Demand $1,000 to $2,000 Increases

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers demanded $1,000 to $2,000 salary increases for the city's 3,400 teachers Monday and threatened demonstrations or a possible strike if action was not taken by the end of November.

Albert Fondy told the Board of Education his group wants "action on the budget by the end of November or it will be impossible to avoid further action."

Some 300 teachers demonstrated in support of the demands before the meeting with the board and then massed in a board room to back the federation's demands.

Fondy also asked the board to grant pay hikes to 716 teachers who have not been paid because they struck in February and March.

The board took no action.

Fondy also made these recommendations:

— Open school facilities evenings, on weekends and during the summer.

— Expand the school intramural and interscholastic athletic programs.

— Institute new lunch facilities at all elementary schools where there is a need.

Fondy also suggested the board plan its 1968-69 budget on a month-to-month basis and then threaten the state with closing the schools if it did not provide sufficient funds.

"It is essential that the board take a crisis approach to the budget matter," Fondy said. "The state and city should be immediately informed of our needs and the deadline after which it is impossible for the schools to continue to function without increased aid."

The teachers carried signs in support of the demands outlined by Fondy.

Some read, "School Should Be Fun, Not a Riot" and "You Can't Eat a Balanced Budget."

Chamber Plans Application For Road Improvement

Warren County Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the county planning office and the U.S. Forest Service has begun preparing application for the government financing of road improvements in Warren County.

The application, being prepared under the Appalachian Access Road program, is to obtain funds for the improvement of Hatch Run rd. and the bridge over Conewango Creek which connects Hatch Run rd. and Route 62.

Nixon Gets Most Votes In YHS Mock Election

YOUNGVILLE — A look at mock election returns from Youngville High School would answer nobody's questions about the political leanings of the Brokenstraw Valley population.

Grades 7 through 12, a total of 812 students, cast ballots and made Richard M. Nixon the presidential winner handily, and re-elected United States Senator Joseph Clark by a comfortable margin over Richard Schweiker, Republican.

Approximately 90 per cent of the student population voted on the presidential issue. The vote went: Nixon 376, Humphrey 276, and Wallace 124. It was noted that the winner, Nixon, failed to get a majority of the votes cast.

Senator Clark the Democrat, polled 327 votes in his race, while his opponent, Schweiker got 278 votes.

Congressman Johnson, Republican, received 379 votes, or three more than Nixon, to outpoll his Democratic opponent, Alan Cleeton, who got 203 votes.

William F. Circone, Democrat, lost by one vote to John B. Hannum, Republican, in the race for Superior Court judge. It has Hannum 278, Circone, 277.

The Republicans won the four remaining races. The votes were: Auditor General-Warner DePuy, Republican, 281; Robert P. Casey, Democrat, 259; State Treasurer, Frank J. Pasquerella, Republican, 283; Grace M. Sloan, Democrat, 265; State Senator, Richard Frame, 311; Robert Kunselman, 237; Assembly, William Allen, 336; Robert Holmes, 226.

The mock election was conducted through the cooperation of County Commissioner David Rice. Guy McCluskey spent the day at the school as judge of elections. Lt. Bernard Winegardner, Warren Police Department, set up voting machines and spent considerable time teaching students voting procedures.

But Williams Doesn't Even Get A Vote

YOUNGVILLE — The Prohibition Party's candidate for the Assembly, the Rev. Robert E. Williams, did not receive a single vote in the mock election at Youngville High School Monday.

Mr. Williams received no votes to 336 for the incumbent, William W. Allen, Republican, and 226 for Robert Holmes, Democrat.

School authorities said they failed to put the Williams name on the ballot, but attributed the lapse to an oversight.

It was generally agreed by competent political observers of the Youngville High School scene that Mr. Williams would have garnered his share of the vote or more if his name had been placed on the ballot. He is well-known and well-liked in Youngville, but reportedly has not been campaigning very actively.

Good Neighbor Policy?

There's one thing we here in Warren County have to look forward to--while we await the time when federal funds will become available to construct the much needed recreation facilities on the shores of the Allegheny Reservoir we can feel charitable toward the other counties of the state who are presently benefiting from Pennsylvania's recently enacted $500 million bond issue.

Already allocated funds total $78 million. Their expenditure will result in:

- Eleven new state parks to be built throughout the Commonwealth at an estimated cost of $19.3 million and expected to be functional within three to seven years.
- A system of 69 new community parks and recreational areas at a cost of $6.2 million on a matching fund basis.
- Four new Fish Commission lakes and a new trout hatchery. --And various amounts to correct stream pollution, build new sewage treatment plants, and create three new waterfowl management areas.

Yes, we have every right to feel charitable as we see our tax dollars doled out to other communities to create or improve their recreation facilities even though our own Chapman Dam State Park is in desperate need of a face lifting, the building of our federal fish hatchery seems to have been postponed indefinitely, and a Fish Commission dam proposed several years ago in the Tidoute area as a means of improving the local economy has never been seriously considered.

But we wonder if this isn't carrying the good neighbor policy a bit too far?

WILLIAM BUCKLEY

The Democratic Gala

It was billed as a "Halloween Gala." The egregious sponsors were: the Americans for Democratic Action, the New Coalition for Humphrey-Muskie. The auditorium was the vast Manhattan Center, capacity 4,000. The speakers were the authors of approximately one quarter of the Current Books section of the New York Public Library an e a s y quorum of the Establishment. Left, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Michael Harrington, Daniel Buckley Patrick Moynihan, Ted Sorensen, William Fitts Ryan, Joseph Rauh Jr., James Farmer, Norman Cousins. It was quite an evening.

Shirley MacLaine, the master of ceremonies, came in, between the speeches, with ideological chit-chat which, with that background of poets and professors, gave something of the impression of Mother Bloor lecturing to the faculty of the Lenin Institute. Her principal complaint was that as an actress she lives in California, and back when Ronald Reagan was head of her union, the actors wanted something, and Reagan settled for two per cent, and in later years he spent two "zillion" dollars on something else, vote for Humphrey.

The genial Mr. Moynihan opened by observing my presence at the press table and remarking that the Church "has always made provisions for late vocations." Whereupon Mr. Moynihan announced that the cessation of the bombing was a vindication of the young people. That assumes either that the young protesters so touched Ho Chi Minh or Lyndon Johnson that they decided on a stop-bombing agreement as a sort of Halloween present to the kids. Another explanation, of course, is that the young people in South Vietnam who have been fighting there for what some people consider idealistic reasons, had something to do with bringing about the pressures that may lead to peace. And of course, there is the third explanation, which is that the stop-bombing agreement is a vindication of what the kids have been saying about Lyndon Johnson's cynicism.

Marietta Tree, the queenly consort of Adlai Stevenson, said that over in the United Nations, everybody is praying that Humphrey will win. The last was supererogatory. It was quite reassuring enough to learn that everyone over at the United Nations is praying. Shirley MacLaine was so overcome by this news that she volunteered the knowledge that she always knew that there was something terribly spiritual about India, and this confirmed it.

William Vandenhuevel said that all of this was in the memory of Robert Kennedy, and that he knew that Nelson Rockefeller in his heart of hearts regretted that the Republican Party had been taken over by the reactionaries. Whereupon Shirley MacLaine volunteered that she felt a special sense of obligation to liberal politics because when she was a five-year old girl, the New Deal "gave me a hot lunch, even though Herbert Hoover hated me." Really, Mr. Hoover was a man of quite extraordinary vision.

Norman Cousins said that nothing had changed in 23 years, and proved it by giving a speech. I first heard him give 23 years ago. Arthur Schlesinger said that Nixon and Agnew would usher in the end of—I didn't quite catch the word, but it was something quite awful, like "America," or "the world," or something.

But the best was yet to be. Galbraith was introduced, and a line straight as a super-highway was quickly constructed by the introducer between Aristotle, Erasmus, Locke, Adam Smith, John Maynard Keynes—and your next speaker. At which point, opening his mouth to speak, the tall, austere Scotsman, for the first time since he was four and one half years old, froze.

A lovely young couple had dashed up to the proscenium, and there shed their raincoats revealing, well, revealing absolutely everything. Eve was rather quickly detained, and the raincoat put back on her shoulders. But Adam, bounced up on stage and holding a pig's head in hand, danced like a leprechaun around the silent, not to say awe-struck, Professor Galbraith. Out came the fuzz from the wings (police brutality—everywhere you go, police brutality) and Galbraith finally turned to his speech, but alas, not many people were really listening, and to show how upset he was, he forgot to blame Adam and Eve on Richard Nixon.

DREW PEARSON

Two Lessons to Learn

WASHINGTON—Whoever wins this election, two things should stand out as lessons to the American people.

One is that they need a drastic revision of the present extravagant system of raising money whereby a candidate must either be very wealthy or must go into political hock to big business or big labor to finance his campaign.

Second, we need a complete revision of our complicated and almost unworkable electoral college system.

This system, inherited from the days of George Washington, lets the American people select electors who are not bound to vote for the candidates for whom the American people vote and to whom the electors are pledged — except in a few states, and in those states the penalties for not doing so are minor. This makes it possible, in theory at least, for the electors to vote for any candidate they choose, regardless of the wishes of the people.

If the electors fail to cast a majority vote for any candidate, power to elect the President then passes to the House of Representatives, where the Congressmen from each state are free to vote for any one of the three top candidates selected by the electoral college.

Yet the Constitution provides that in the House each state delegation has just one vote. That vote would be determined by a poll of the delegation. But if a state delegation should be evenly divided and unable to agree on a candidate by majority vote, it would not have a vote. Further, the Constitution requires only that a quorum of two-thirds of the states be represented in the House selection of a President.

The Constitution provides in Article II that if the electors report they have failed to elect a President, then the House shall "immediately" vote on the President. There is no definition of what "immediately" means, beyond the provision that if the House shall have failed to select a President by Inauguration Day, then the Vice President — who in the meantime presumably has been selected by the Senate — "shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President."

The Constitution does not say that the Vice President shall become President. And it does not state how long this situation would continue. The Senate, like the House, is not bound to vote for the Vice Presidential candidate with the highest popular vote, but can select either of the two top candidates in the electoral college vote. And again, since the electoral college is not bound by law to vote for the most popular candidates, it theoretically could give enough votes to a minority candidate — such as George Wallace — to make him one of the two top candidates.

The 25th Amendment to the Constitution, adopted after the assassination of President Kennedy, provides that if the President is removed from office, resigns, or dies, the Vice Presi-

Storing the Campaign Gear

(C) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Sunday night before election the big trucks back up to the consolidated campaign warehouse here and, in the dark, begin unloading and storing all the gear used in the presidential campaign.

To the untrained eye, most of it looks like junk, but the truckers and packers handle it with care, for most of it is used in campaign after campaign and any serious breakage might require our politicians to produce something new. That would never do, of course.

It is always fascinating to watch the stuff being moved back into the warehouse, and Sunday night's unloading was no exception. The first thing off the truck was Harold Stassen, which had peeled badly as the result of being left forgotten in the sand at Miami Beach. "With a coat of Butcher's Wax, Stassen will be as good as new by '72," the warehouse foreman said.

Next came the familiar old Rockefeller campaign. It was thinner than it had been in 1960 and 64, thinner by at least $5 million. It always comes back looking like that. By 1972 it will be back to full health and raring to shed several million more dollars in pursuit of abysmal strategy concocted by dismal strategists.

Watching all these materials being shunted into the warehouse, one is struck by how much of every campaign is dispensable. Here, for example, is the candidacy of Walter J.

dent shall become President. It makes no reference to a situation in which no President has been elected either by the electors or the House of Representatives.

The same amendment provides that whenever a vacancy exists in the office of Vice President, the then President shall nominate a Vice President, who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress. But this amendment does not state what shall be the case when the Vice President is "acting" as President.

This raises the question of what would happen if the Vice President were acting as President, as provided in Article II of the Constitution, when no President has been elected by Inauguration Day. Would he "act" as President for two years? Or four years? And would he have the power to nominate his own Vice President?

Clearly, the selection of the President of the most powerful nation on earth should not be subject to so many questions and risks where, in presidential elections or members of Congress could totally disregard the will of the people.

Several attempts have been made to rewrite the Constitution, by amendments, to cover potential crises. Unfortunately, none of them has gone far enough to take care of all the questions raised in this year's election.

The Twelfth Amendment, ratified in 1804, changed the constitutional provision that the two top candidates in electoral voting should be President and Vice President, respectively. Under that system, this year we might have had Richard Nixon as President and Hubert Humphrey as his Vice President.

The 20th amendment, ratified in 1933, changed the date for starting the terms of office of the President and Vice President from March 4 to Jan. 20 in the years following Presidential election days. It also tried to solve the problem of what happens if a President-elect dies before he takes office or if there has been an election deadlock. It declared that in the event of the death of the President-elect, "the Vice President-elect shall become President."

It then goes on to say that if a President has not been chosen by the time he should take office, or has failed to qualify for other reasons, "The Vice President-elect shall act as President until a President shall have qualified."

But again the amendment does not spell out how long the Vice President shall "act" as President, whether he actually becomes President if no Presidential candidate does qualify, or how such a candidate can qualify for the office if he has not done so by Inauguration Day.

It's all most confusing. And it will take some expert constitutional lawyers with perhaps an appeal to the Supreme Court to straighten out the question of who is elected if neither Nixon nor Humphrey gets the required 270 electoral votes to make him President.

The second great problem of political money raising will be discussed in an early column.

Storing the Campaign Gear

into a slop jar with a thud that awoke a congressman who jumped out of a box and said "cockoo!"

"You'd never guess what that is," the foreman said.

"Of course I would. It's the electoral college."

The foreman was disappointed. "You've been here before," he complained. At that moment, there was an uproarious squawking from one of the trucks.

"Be careful how you handle Mayor Daley," the foreman admonished a porter who was packing fresh straw around His Honor and the Illinois delegation.

"Another piece of dispensable gear," the foreman grumbled, "but we'd better put it in the front of the building. The Democrats will want it early in '72."

While he was talking, the lights suddenly became dim and the room filled rapidly with a gloomy, gray gas. "Great Zeus!" the foreman cried, "somebody must have dropped the Depression!"

Sure enough, at the entrance a terrified porter was staring at the shattered remnants of a huge green jug. "Now we're in for it," the foreman moaned. "That jug contained the last bit of the Depression we had left. If the Democrats don't have it in 1972 they'll have to produce a whole new campaign."

Through the deepening gloom several trucks were moving an enormous solid block of unadulterated tedium. "Where do you want the Republican National Convention, boss?" one asked.

Behind them came two men carrying the guns. The place was no longer any fun. It reminded you that 1972 was coming.

SYLVIA PORTER

'Prosperity' Is Not Your Goal

Of the 121,500,000 Americans eligible to vote today, a record 12,500,000 of you are under 25 years old and voting for the first time . . . meaning you have known nothing but "hot" prosperity, a tight labor market, ever-rising pay levels.

Another 47,500,000 of you are 25 to 44 . . . meaning that in your adult years, you have had personal experience only with the mildest of economic downturns, and assuming you have a modest amount of education-training, you have had no personal knowledge of persistent unemployment.

Less than 20,000,000 of you are over 65 . . . meaning you're the only group certain to recall the era of deep depression. It's hard to tell how many of the remaining 41,000,000 between 44 and 64 years of age actually remember the conditions which brought the Democrats to power in the 1930s and which laid the groundwork for today's vast network of laws to provide Americans with Social Security pensions, insurance of bank deposits, minimum wages, unemployment insurance, health insurance, etc.

In short, only a scant minority in today's Presidential election know in their bones what it was like to be superbly qualified for a job but to be utterly unable to find employment . . . to get pay cuts instead of pay increases . . . to live doubled up with the folks for years . . . Only a relative few really appreciate what Vice President Humphrey has been talking about when he has implored Americans to remember the protective laws passed for them under the Democratic banner.

This breakdown of the voting population's age is, I submit, of enormous importance to the outcome. Perhaps I will fumble the explanation but permit me to try.

"Prosperity" is not the great goal to today's youngsters that it was when my generation was under 25 for the simple reason that today's youngsters have always had prosperity. What is so appealing about the claim "you've never had it so good," if you don't have any yardstick for what's bad? Unless you are among the tragically disadvantaged uneducated and untrained, jobs are looking for you. You'll start at a record high pay. You'll get a wide variety of benefits now. You'll be assured both a government and a private corporation pension in your older years.

How can we expect you to understand what it could be like when a horrible 24 per cent of all American workers were walking the streets, desperately seeking jobs, as in 1933? When there were no benefits, no paid vacations, no pensions, no bank deposits or unemployment or health insurance, no nothing! . . .

"A roof over your head" is not the objective to today's youngsters that it was to my generation for the simple reason that today's youngsters can have their own pad for the asking. You can even afford to drop out and in today's affluent society still find a pad for the asking.

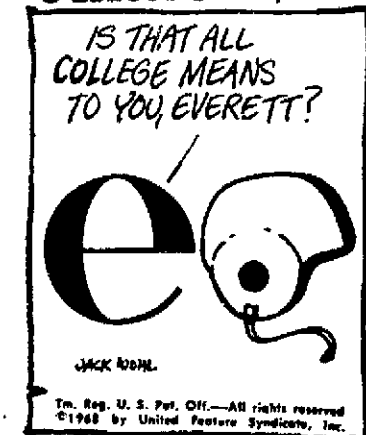

How can we expect you to understand what it could be like when you had to spend all your young married years with the folks because both generations had to share each other's earnings and expenses? During the great depression, almost half of all America's young married lived doubled up with the folks; few of us even dared to dream of moving into places of our own while we were single. Like it or not, we lived together.

We who grew up in America during the depression made a sacred vow never to permit it to happen again and, at least until now, we have managed to achieve this.

We have done so well, in fact, that you who are voting for the first time cannot grasp how tough our crusade was and you are actually contemptuous of our contribution.

So be it. But I trust you are as successful in raising the quality of America's prosperity as we were in giving you the prosperity in the first place.

The 'Size' of the Vote

HARRISBURG — Will the "size" of the voter turnout have any profound effect on the outcome of today's election insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned?

Unquestionably it will—but in which direction, that is toward which party or party candidates actually is just as moot a point today as it was back in the presidential runoff of 1824 for example, when only 4.04 per cent of the Keystone State's population turned out to vote.

To be sure in the intervening years since 1824 the percentage figure has climbed but it is still amazing low.

To illustrate the point: in the last presidential election four years ago when Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson raced into office after smothering GOP hopeful Barry Goldwater, a quivering 44.45 percent of the Keystone State population turned out at the voting booth on election day.

Or there is the preceding election of 1960—described at the time as a "mass turnout"—when Democrat John F. Kennedy defeated by a ballot hair the gent running against this year, Richard Nixon, but even in that "mass turnout" election only 44.24 percent of Pennsylvania's population made it to the polls. Or, going to the Republican

Salvaging Something from '68

(C) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK—No matter who is elected President today—if anybody is—the year may not prove to have been a total loss. Nobody is wildly enthusiastic about any of the candidates, and some have started asking themselves whether what we have is really worse than what we're going to get. The campaign itself has seemed to swing aimlessly between boredom and boredom, and to cap it all off there is no real certainty at this point that the whole thing can be brought quickly to a merciful and decisive end.

But even assuming the worst—deadlock, controversy, and a minority president—something still might be salvaged from this bleak year. In fact, a deadlock in the electoral college might at least insure what could be the biggest single advance that 1968 is likely to bring about—the abolition of the electoral college and the institution of a sensible and equitable manner of electing presidents.

Already, a constitutional amendment providing for the direct popular election of presidents has won the approval of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional amendments, the American Bar Association, and—more important—Everett Dirksen. The blatant threat by George Wallace that he would trade electoral votes for political power, the obvious inequity that would result if the election were thrown into the House of Representatives (where Nevada's one congressman would be equivalent of New York's 41, and Wyoming's one would be as powerful as California's 39)—all this has brought the electoral system into disrepute already, and if a Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace deadlock actually develops it might well sound the death knell for the creaky old system.

The Wallace candidacy, distasteful though many find it, might also prove ultimately responsible for another beneficial development in American politics. Starting last year, Wallace and his exceptionally able aides managed to get his name on the ballot in 50 states, scoring a major political victory to do so in California and winning an important legal battle in the Supreme Court against Ohio's outrageous restrictions on third parties.

The Ohio decision could be a landmark on this point, and in any case the Wallace experience has been a useful lesson in the extent to which, over the years, the two major parties have come to dominate the government establishment to the detriment of outside influences—that often are needed. And those who deplore Wallace's particular brand of influence would do well to remember that the same barriers would exist against a third party headed by Eugene McCarthy or John Lindsay or any other maverick. They provide one of the most stultifying influences in American politics.

The experience of 1968 might also result in renewed importance for state primaries. This year Wisconsin and Nebraska adopted the Oregon method of putting all presidential candidates on the ballot unless they specifically ruled themselves out; New York staged primaries for statewide offices; and in numerous states, the heated Humphrey-Kennedy-McCarthy contest in the Democratic party focused attention on the arbitrary and unfair methods by which some states choose convention delegates.

McCarthy's experience, moreover, while it did not finally bring him personal victory at Chicago, demonstrated the great opportunity for political dissent provided by the state primaries. If he had had to campaign from the start on a national basis, it is difficult to believe that he could have gone so far and achieved such profound influence on the course of political and diplomatic events.

More, and more open, state primaries would be a fitting complement to the kind of convention reforms launched at Chicago, and together with greater opportunities for minor parties and the direct popular election of presidents, they would go far to revive and freshen American politics after a long decline into flaccidity and inertia.

But one baffling problem was more evident this year than ever before. The public opinion polls became a major influence on politics; on the eve of the Republican convention, they obviously damaged Nelson Rockefeller; in the early part of the fall campaign, they became a high hurdle for Hubert Humphrey, since they strongly suggested that he could not win.

This is not to say that the polls were wrong, then or now—even if Dr. Gallup and Louis Harris usually have been in sharp disagreement, and even if both have come around to predicting a close election. But if the polltakers are not merely reporting sentiment but rather are influencing and even creating it, then the whole idea of measuring public opinion becomes suspect.

Candidates Hotly Seeking Votes from Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Democratic, Republican and Wallace leaders, hotly contesting crucial Pennsylvania, mounted last-ditch appeals on the eve of Tuesday's presidential election in pursuit of every undecided voter.

The state's 29 electoral votes, third largest bloc in the nation, were a valuable prize too big to be ignored.

Right now, the Keystone State seems to be a toss-up, with everybody claiming victory—and nobody really certain.

GOP State Chairman John C. Jordan forecast a plurality of at least 350,000 for Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate. He said he was "cautiously optimistic."

Thomas Z. Minehart, Democratic state chairman, claimed Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey would sweep to victory—but he declined to predict an actual margin because of the uncertainties presented by the candidacy of George C. Wallace, third party nominee.

Wallace, himself, predicted a sensational win but political observers report that support for the former Alabama governor appears to be dwindling.

Polls will be open 13 hours, starting at 7 a. m., and the weatherman predicts mostly fair skies with pleasant, seasonal temperatures.

Though the contest for president is dominant—despite alleged apathy among the state's 5,599,364 registered voters—there are other important election races in Pennsylvania.

—For U. S. Senator: Democratic incumbent Joseph S. Clark, seeking a third six-year term, is challenged by Republican Congressman Richard S. Schweiker. This is regarded as a cliffhanger, and the presence of three minor party candidates, probably will blur the picture even more.

—For 27 seats in Congress, Democrats held a 14-13 edge in the 90th Congress, which fell to a tie when Rep. Elmer J. Holland of Allegheny County died during the summer. Should the presidential contest end up in the U. S. House, which is possible, control of the delegation would be important.

—For control of the state legislature, all 203 House seats and half of the 50 Senate seats are up for grabs, with Republicans now in the majority.

—For state treasurer and state auditor general, both offices now held by Democrats not eligible to succeed themselves, and for State Superior Court, in which a Republican appointed by the governor is seeking a full 10-year term.

Also on the ballot in the state's 9,492 voting precincts—More than half now equipped with machines—is a $28 million referendum for a bonus for Vietnam veterans—first time such an issue ever was presented to the electorate while a conflict was still in progress. It has had little opposition.

An important factor in the election—should it turn out to be nip-and-tuck and down-the-wire as predicted—will be the more than 150,000 absentee ballots.

Dr. John Larson Named Regional Health Director

HARRISBURG — Dr. John W. Larson, who has served for the past year as chief of the School Health Section and Cystic Fibrosis Program in the State Health Department's Division of Maternal and Child Health, has been promoted to medical director of the department's 14-county Region VI covering the northwest area of the State. His new headquarters will be in Meadville.

He replaces Dr. Lewis D. Williams who died on August 8. Counties included in the Region VI area are Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Lawrence, Venango, Clarion, Forest, Warren, McKean, Elk, Jefferson, Clearfield, Cameron and Potter.

A native of Warren, Dr. Larson earned a BS degree from the Pennsylvania State University, an MD degree from Temple Medical School and an MPH degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

Before joining the Health Department, he was a general practitioner and pediatric specialist in Warren for almost 20 years. During much of that period he served as school

These won't be counted until later in the week and could keep results in doubt for days.

The Clark-Schweiker affair has been dullsville from its start, with neither candidate attracting much voter interest. Though Clark, 67-year-old former mayor of Philadelphia, has successfully bucked top-of-the-ticket Republican trends in his two previous Senate triumphs, in 1956 and 1962, some observers feel that ticket-splitting will be ineffectual and that the state races likely will follow the path of the presidential winner.

Clark, who upset Republican James H. Duff, a former governor, by 18,000 in 1956 while Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower won Pennsylvania by 592,000, acknowledges he's in for another squeaker—but will win by 100,000.

Schweiker, a handsome 42-year-old four-term Congressman from Montgomery County, has appealed for new ideas from a young, new leadership. He said he expects to win by 250,000.

The key to Pennsylvania may lie in how the Democrats do in their city strongholds, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton and Erie—but especially Philadelphia.

Democratic leaders in Philadelphia are aiming for a majority of more than 200,000—and Mayor James H. J. Tate predicts it will be 282,000. This contrasts with the 331,000 rolled up by John F. Kennedy in beating Nixon in 1960, and the record 424,000 majority amassed by President Johnson in 1964.

In Allegheny County, which includes Pittsburgh, Democrats are hoping for an edge of about 100,000, around 25,000 in Scranton and 15,000 in Erie.

No Republican candidate for president has ever won the White House without winning Pennsylvania's electoral votes. Democrats did it last in 1948, when Harry Truman lost the state but won the nation.

There have been some indications that disgruntled Democrats, still professing a preference for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, plan to write in the Minnesota senator's name. This is legally impossible in Pennsylvania, according to a ruling by the state Justice Department.

Former McCarthy backers have formed a committee in support of Humphrey.

Mrs. Grace M. Sloan, now auditor general but unable by law to succeed herself, is the Democratic candidate for state treasurer. She held this post once before. She is opposed by Republican Frank J. Pasquerella.

Other statewide offices: Auditor General — Democrat Robert P. Casey and Republican Warner DePuy. State Superior Court — Democrat William P. Cernone and Republican John B. Hannum.

For U. S. Senator, state treasurer and auditor general there are also candidates from the Constitutional, Socialist Labor and Militant Workers parties.

The Socialist Labor, Militant Workers and Peace and Freedom parties have candidates for president.

physician for Warren Area Schools and was also involved in a variety of civic and medical-related activities. These included terms as Warren County medical director and president of the Warren County Medical Society.

Since January he has been an associate clinical professor of pediatrics for Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, Philadelphia.

A veteran of the U. S. Army Medical Corps, Dr. Larson was in charge of the medical program at the Armed Forces Induction Station at New Orleans from 1946 to 1948.

In his new position he will earn $20,566 a year.

Both Schweiker and Clark Are Optimistic About Results

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joseph S. Clark and challenger Richard S. Schweiker both predicted victory Monday on the eve of their election contest for Clark's U. S. Senate seat.

Clark, a Philadelphia Democrat seeking his third term, said he would win by 100,000 votes.

Republican Schweiker, who has represented Montgomery County in Congress for four terms, predicted victory by 250,000 votes.

Clark said the Vietnam issue has helped him in recent days and accused Schweiker of coming over to his side on a bombing halt in North Vietnam.

But Schweiker, citing a poll in Philadelphia by E. John Bucel, said there had been "a recent dramatic upsurge for my candidacy."

Schweiker said the poll showed he would lose Philadelphia by less than 150,000 votes and said no Democratic candidate had carried the state with that small a margin in Philadelphia in the past decade.

"I honestly think we're going to win by about 250,000," Schweiker told a news conference at Greater Pittsburgh Airport. "I'll stand by that prediction — I don't think it will be a squeaker."

"I think we're going to have our strong support from our regular Republicans and I think we're going to have a lot of support from discerning and intelligent Democrats who are fed up with Mr. Clark," Schweiker said.

Clark acknowledged that the gun control issue had hampered him in rural areas, but said it was a phony issue.

"The fact is we both voted the same way on the same bills in Washington," Clark said.

He said there was so little difference between his views and Schweiker's that he didn't believe the voters would take a chance of defeating Clark and losing his seniority in the Senate.

"In fact, I've been telling my conservative Republican friends to vote for Mr. (Frank) Gaydos," Clark said, referring to the Senatorial candidate of the Constitutional Party.

"If they want somebody who's opposed to stopping the fighting in Vietnam, who's opposed to poverty programs and education, then Mr. Gaydos is an alternative, not Mr. Schweiker."

Clark, who said the race could be very close if Richard M. Nixon carries Pennsylvania by a wide margin, won re-election in 1962 by a 104,000-vote margin over Republican Congressman James E. Van Zandt.

In 1956, he defeated former Republican Gov. James H. Duff by 18,000 votes although President Eisenhower carried the state by more than 600,000.

GOP Spends $17 Million To Win Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans filed a series of tardy campaign committee financial reports Monday and then announced they are spending at least $17 million on the 1968 election.

J. W. Middendorf, treasurer of the GOP National Committee, said all of the bills aren't in yet but the spending total will be $17 million or "slightly more."

This compares with $14.4 million he said was spent by all Republican committees in the unsuccessful effort to elect Barry Goldwater in 1964.

Democrats, last week, placed their campaign spending estimates at between $10 million and $12 million.

Middendorf, asked why their reports were late being filed with the House clerk, said it was due to a "clerical backlog."

Three reports came in by registered mail at noon Monday. Two others were hand delivered later, arriving only 30 minutes before closing time.

All of the reports were due nine days ago. Both the Humphrey and Wallace campaigns filed their pre-election reports last week.

Middendorf said the Republicans, so far, have filed reports with the House clerk which list a total in contributions of $13,259,882 and expenditures of $13,222,020.

He said this over-all total comes from a series of 10 committee reports. If a total was not included on one of these reports, he said it was due to a clerical problem "and they have been sent over since."

The Nixon-Agnew Campaign Committee report, which contained no totals on spending, arrived at midday on election eve along with those from the Republican National Finance Operations Committee and the Republican National Finance Committee, both of which had over-all figures.

A spokesman in the House clerk's office said the law does not have a specific penalty for late filings.

Middendorf said more than 300,000 individual contributions had been received by all GOP committees so far, placing the average at "slightly in excess of $50."

Reporters estimated the Nixon-Agnew campaign, TV and finance committee reports which were turned in Monday contained names of some 1,800 people who gave $100 or more. At least 200 on the campaign committee report contributed between $2,500 and $5,000.

Clark's Campaign Costs $317,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark's office Monday reported the Democratic senator has spent $317,000 so far in his bid for reelection. The figure is less than what Clark spent in the 1962 campaign and is also less than what his Republican opponent, Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, says he is spending, a Clark aide said.

Political committees working for senatorial candidates are not required under federal law to disclose their expenditures. But Clark's office said the disclosure was voluntary and in line with the advocacy of financial disclosure by elected officials.

Lancaster School Re-opens With New Rules for Students

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—McCaskey High School opened its classroom doors Monday without incident, but with a set of new rules governing its students. The school has been hit with a series of racial disturbances following a McCaskey football game last Saturday. Several policemen were injured when a group of Negroes reportedly tried to prevent them from arresting another Negro. Eight persons were charged with inciting to riot in the incident. The school was closed Thursday and Friday after racial incidents broke out Thursday and spread to other sections of the city. Among the 10 new rules of conduct was a catch-all regulation that bars leaving the building during class breaks and other actions which might disrupt the classes and cause further student disorders. The code also bans insubordination, smoking and running in the halls.

Humane Society Offers Good Choices for Pets

The Warren County Humane Society has many dogs, without homes, that would make good pets. The dogs are big and little, short and tall, homely and pretty, but all have good dispositions, and are looking for homes. The following are some that might prove good birthday presents, or even good Election Day presents: Speckles, white and brown bird dog type, webbed paws, short-haired and very friendly. Tina, shiny, with a coal-black coat, small and very gentle. Mamie, collie-shepherd type, quite affectionate and about a year old. Gretchen, young, brown German shepherd, female, a very fine dog. Brownie, small, terrier-type, floppy-eared young female. Prince, five-months old male German shepherd, black and brown coat, in search of a good home. Snowball, a greyhound-type female, white with brown face, just the dog for a farm, likes people. Hanky, shaggy, black, medium sized female, about a year old, very friendly dog. Little Lady, black and white terrier type female, about a year old. Mimi, black female, white blaze on front, ring of white around her nose, possible cocker spaniel, about four months old.

Pre-Election Caution Sends Prices Sliding

NEW YORK (AP) — An extremely cautious pre-election stock market spent most of Monday in a depressing slide but came back to cut many of its losses in late dealings.

Volume sank to 10.93 million shares from 14.48 million Friday and was the smallest since Sept. 4 when 10.05 million shares changed hands.

The popular averages declined. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .2 to 350.8 with industrials off 1.0, rails up .3 and utilities up 1.2.

The Dow Jones industrial average declined 2.18 to 946.23, having come back sharply from a loss of 5.78 at mid session.

Of 1,560 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, losers had a wide lead of 712 to 614 over gainers. A total of 1,560 issues was traded.

Analysts said that many investors just stood aside for most of the session in view of two huge uncertainties—the presidential election and possible developments in the Vietnam peace process after election day.

Wall Street was considering seriously the possibility of a narrow victory by either major candidate and also the chance that neither would win a majority of electoral votes, thus throwing the nation's political future into a further period of uncertainty.

Analysts said that the late improvement could be ascribed to short covering and other precautionary buying by investors hedging against the chance of an ebullient post-election market.

Chrysler was the most-active stock, off 1 1/2 at 66 1/2 on 217,400 shares. An early block of 99,900 shares helped put it in front.

Prices were generally lower on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.33 million shares compared with 5.46 million Friday.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today is my 25th wedding anniversary. I just read the letter from the anguished wife who stumbled over her husband and her younger sister in the backyard. Your advice to send the sister packing and never mention the affair again was perfect. I hope the woman has the courage to follow it. Perhaps my own experience will give her added strength. Twenty years ago I also stumbled over my husband, only it wasn't my sister he was with, it was my very closest friend. The occasion was a 4th of July outing and we were picnicking in the hills. I was shocked and filled with anger and grief. When I told my mother the next morning I was filing for divorce, she said, "Are you going to divorce a man you love, give up your home, your place in the community and deprive your children of a father because of a cheap little tramp? Mother then told me of a similar incident involving my own devoted father. They had been married less than three years when she caught him with a neighbor. After we both had a good cry, I pulled my shoulders back, painted a smile on my face, and that was the end of my divorce plans. My husband and I have had a wonderful marriage — some tears, many laughs and five beautiful children. When I think of how close I came to destroying it all, I shudder. Easy to forgive a cheating husband and never mention it again? No — it was the hardest thing I've ever had to do in my life, but it paid huge dividends. — VICTORIA

DEAR VIC: Your letter was about the 100th I received with the same message. I didn't realize that so many wives have stumbled over their husbands in the past 25 years. Thanks to all who wrote and cheer for the victors. The following letter strengthens your case, girls. Read on. Dear Ann Landers: I never thought I'd write to you but that letter from the woman who caught her husband with her younger sister was my story only it wasn't my sister, it was my niece. My husband swore it would never happen again. He begged me to forgive him, just as the husband of the woman who wrote, but I was so bitter and so incapable of swallowing my pride that I could think of nothing but getting even. I filed for divorce even though my three children begged me not to. Even after the divorce, my husband tried for two years to win me back but I refused to have nothing to do with him. All I wanted was to hurt him more. Finally he gave up and married a lovely young widow with a small child. He has made a new life for himself and I am a lonely and miserable woman who allowed her foolish stubbornness and lack of humility to ruin her life. If you think there's a lesson here for others, print my letter, Ann. Sign me — RIVER OF TEARS. Dear Tears: I do and I will. Thank you for writing. + + +

REV. DOUGLAS OLDHAM

Rev. Oldham Song Leader At First Church of God

The Rev. Douglas R. Oldham is song leader this week at First Church of God on Madison avenue in Warren. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. each day through Friday.

Mr. Oldham, of Anderson, Indiana, was born into a pastor's home in Akron, Ohio on Nov.

MISS McMANIGLE

Plans Spring Wedding

Mrs. Mamie Fox, 424 Poplar st., Warren and Mr. Eugene Fox, Jamestown, N.Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Jean McManigle, to Angelo D. Zingone Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Zingone Sr., of 115 Pine st., Warren. The bride-elect is employed at Solar Electric Division, Electronics, Inc. and her fiancé at Deluxe Metal Corp. A spring wedding is being planned.

30, 1930 and is also the grandson of a minister.

He is regularly heard as soloist on the Christian Brotherhood Hour and is also a member of Christian Brothers Quartet. Singing since he was four years old, he has served as a minister of music in North Carolina, West Virginia, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

As a member of Glory Voices Quartet, in the fall of 1957, Mr. Oldham toured the United States with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, singing also with the regular Glee Club. During the Waring tour, he sang with the Pennsylvanians by invitation at the White House, of President Eisenhower and on occasion of a State Dinner in honor of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

An enthusiastic song leader, Mr. Oldham has the ability of making audiences want to sing. His messages in song do much to prepare audiences for the preaching of the Word of God.

Civic Orchestra Plans Fall Concert

The Warren Civic Orchestra has set Sunday, Nov. 17 at 3 p.m. for its fall concert.

Music lovers will be in for a treat this season as the orchestra, under the direction of Carl Stout, presents Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 4 in A major, more familiarly known as the "Hallelujah" and the Overture to Così Fan Tutte by W. A. Mozart.

As an added attraction the orchestra will also play Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 23, with Mrs. James Potter as soloist.

'Lively Issues In Pennsylvania'

(Last in a series)
Members and guests of the League of Women Voters will consider several Pennsylvania problems at their meetings this week. The discussion units will be held tonight at 8 o'clock and Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the YWCA.
Among the lively issues which can be met by state government is that of "Legislative Reform." The size and the makeup of Pennsylvania's legislature, its committees, rules, meeting times and the length of the sessions all contribute to the efficiency and effectiveness or the inefficiency and ineffectiveness of our state government.
Should Pennsylvania have full time legislators? Are closed committee meetings necessary to the operation of the legislature? Why is it possible for other state legislators to complete their business in six months while it takes Pennsylvania twelve?
During the past year, two bills were passed by the legislature to try to improve its image. One, the Code of Ethics, was aimed at the conduct of the legislators, especially their compensation and the conflict of interest problem. The second bill created a Legislative Modernization Commission to study procedures and make recommendations. All of this reflects wide interest from the public, the press, and the legislators, too. If the League of Women Voters were to adopt it as a study it would be indeed a timely issue.
Turning to another vital section of state government, the administrative arm, the League might study "Administrative Reorganization." Everyone knows there are many departments, bureaus, boards and commissions to carry out the increasing number of services the people want. Their elected representatives authorize these bodies.
What is the administrative structure in Pennsylvania? How well is it organized and staffed to fulfill its purpose? Would we be better served — or worse — if all aspects of the conservation of natural resources was handled in one department? (This is just an example.) Is our organization for health, welfare types of services structured so as to provide the best?
What controls has the Governor over the administrative agencies? What controls has the legislature? How independent should these agencies be? Having worked hard for many of the programs now in existence, the League of Women Voters could very well examine the effectiveness with which

Three Jaycettes At Fall Meeting

Three Warren Jaycettes on Saturday attended the Area Fall meeting of the Pennsylvania Jaycettes, hosted by Bradford Jaycettes.

Traveling to Bradford for the luncheon and business meeting at Holiday Inn were Mrs. Joseph Brown, Mrs. Nick Petchel and Mrs. Dave Rowley.

The session provided an opportunity for an idea exchange for new projects with members of other groups, as well as to report on projects already undertaken.

The State President, from Lebanon, Pa., attended the meeting.

Stachowiak to Address DAR

"An American in Moscow" will be the subject of a talk by John L. Stachowiak before members of the Daughters of the American Revolution to be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in Northwest Savings' Hospitality Room.
The speaker, who teaches both Russian and Latin at Warren Area High School, undertook a year's study at a special Russian Institute in 1961, and was one of 25 high school instructors selected for 36 weeks of intensive study of the Russian language under the National Defense Education Act.
Following this, Mr. Stachowiak participated in a five week program inside Russia, designed to make the most intensive use possible of the Soviet Union as a living language laboratory.
Hostesses for Thursday's meeting are the Misses Camilla and Catherine Henderson.

Engagement Announced

MISS GOFF

Open House

Open House will be observed for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reed Saturday, Nov. 9 from 2-5 p.m. at Chancellors Valley United Methodist Church. Everyone is welcome.

Mr. Reed is a sergeant in the U.S. Air Force and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reed Sr. of Bear Lake.

Mrs. Reed is the former Mary Carolyn Baxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baxter, Abilene, Texas.

The couple was united in marriage on October 1, 1968 in College View Baptist Church in Abilene.

Food Ideas

QUICK AND EASY

Slice a can of luncheon meat in half, heat it in a frying-pan, then serve with a sauce of creamed eggs.

Like deviled eggs? Place them over a slice of canned luncheon meat or ready-to-serve meats and top with hot cheese sauce.

MUSTARD DRESSING WITH FRESH NECTARINES

Shake 2 parts salad oil with 1 part vinegar, some prepared yellow mustard, salt, pepper and chopped pimiento. Pour over salad bowl with strips of Romaine (cut leaves crosswise with shears), sliced fresh nectarines and green pepper rings; toss very well until everything is coated and tangy.

Spanish Eggs are nice for lunch. Cut 6 hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise; remove and mash yolks. Mix in 1/4 cup minced onion, 1/4 cup mayonnaise and salt and pepper to taste; refill whites. Place 2 cups cooked rice in 1 1/2-quart casserole; arrange eggs on top; cover. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes. Meanwhile, combine 2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with mushrooms and 1 to 2 teaspoons chili powder; simmer 10 minutes. Serve over eggs and rice. Makes 4 servings.

Tropical Bake is made with ingredients you may already have on hand. Slice 2 cans (12 ounces each) luncheon meat EACH into 4 slices; arrange in shallow baking dish. Place 1 can (15 1/4 ounces) sliced pineapple, drained, over meat. Combine 2 cans (8 ounces each) OR 1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits and 1/4 cup brown sugar; pour over pineapple. Prepare 3 cups mashed potatoes using instant dehydrated potatoes; place mounds of potatoes on pineapple. Dot with butter or margarine. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Extension Group Tastes Recipes

It was food tasting time recently when the Swede Hollow Extension group met at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth McMillene. The ladies tasted various items brought and decided the recipes of Mrs. Evelyn Wilson and Mrs. Betty Van Houten should be sent to the extension office for the Christmas Cook Book.

The group meets at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Allen Peterson, Jackson Run rd., prior to the Christmas Fair.

To Entertain

The "Sweet Adelines" will entertain members of the Wellcome Wagon Club at the regular monthly meeting scheduled for 7:45 p.m. Thursday in Fellowship Hall at First Presbyterian Church.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. John Eberly and Mrs. James Eberly.

On Nov. 15, the club plans a square dance to be held at the Youngsville Ski Lodge, with full details to come later.

Meets Wednesday

The Hemlock Home Extension Group meets Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Goldie Hezel, of 455 Hemlock rd., Warren.

If the Shoe Fits... James R. Valone

Footsaver Education

What is a shoe wardrobe?

A shoe wardrobe is the same as a clothing wardrobe. It is an adequate assortment of shoes to meet all occasions. Proper work shoes for one's occupation are essential. Then dress shoes in both black and brown for men, to match other clothing.

For summertime, well ventilated shoes are so much more comfortable and healthful for the feet that they should be a "must." Various sports, such as hunting, bowling, golf and boating require special shoes.

Casual shoes for country wear, and slippers for relaxation around the house will usually complete a man's shoe wardrobe. At this point, a woman is just beginning, as she prefers shoes in many more colors and styles to match her various outfits. A shoe wardrobe is therefore a very personal thing.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Moving day is an awful chore, but I have found a way to lighten it, at least for local moves.

Use sturdy shopping bags instead of cartons!

When I moved from an upstairs apartment to a house across town, I stood at the head of the stairway on my way to the grocery for the usual empty cartons to pack things in. Suddenly, I thought about struggling down those steep stairs with heavy cartons.

So instead of using the cartons, I bought a number of shopping bags. They were inexpensive and wonderful. I could carry two bags in either hand, each holding as much as one carton that would have required both my arms.

For a local, do-it-yourself move, the bags do not have to be so carefully packed because you know what is in them. They ride easily on the seat, floor or in your car trunk.

And when you arrive at your new home, you can set them down in each room where you intend to unpack them. As fast as they are unpacked they can be folded and put away clearing your litter.

The ones you haven't time to get at can be set in a corner or behind the door out of sight.

One warning - just don't overload.

Another thing, be sure to have enough. I ran out and had to use two or three cartons in the end and realized how much more convenient the shopping bags are. Happy moving!

Dorothy E. Curtis

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you know if you sprinkle waxed paper with powdered sugar when wrapping a piece of frosted cake for your child's or husband's lunch, it will prevent the frosting from sticking to the paper?

Saves sticky fingers and looks much more appetizing when ready to eat.

Mother

DEAR HELOISE:

We have an electric clock-radio with an appliance outlet which we keep in the bedroom.

It's so much more pleasant to get up on dark winter mornings if we plug in a small lamp.

It lights up just before the music comes on.

Marj Marshall

DEAR HELOISE:

From a tired-out velveteen maternity suit, I made a smart 3-piece outfit by taking out the sleeves and making the flared jacket straight. From the excess material, I put a new panel in front of the skirt to replace the former "hole."

I just added a pretty long-sleeved blouse and now have a new dress-up suit!

Mrs. Wasnidge

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I am a waitress. One day, a customer with a large protruding tummy kept losing his napkin.

He had a nice tie clip on, so I used it to attach his napkin to his tie.

No more trouble.

I told him I would give this handy hint to you and he just laughed.

Mrs. W. J. Shvorot

So did I.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I have what I think is a good idea for the new high boots you see so much of now.

When I am not wearing mine, I don't like them to just fold over, so I roll up several thicknesses of newspaper and put them down in the boots.

This way the boots stay nice looking with no deep fold marks on them.

Joan Ammerman

DEAR HELOISE:

I love pistachios, but every time I eat them I break a fingernail. So now I use small manicure scissors that are no longer my best pair, insert the point in the crack and spread the shells apart as I open up the scissors.

It works fast and, best of all, I don't end up with red and sore fingers.

Elvera

DEAR HELOISE:

I never throw away hair that is caught in my hairbrush or my comb after shampooing it. I save every strand and make a "hair lift" out of it and pin it to the top of my head where I want that "pouf."

Then I just comb my hair over the "pouf" which I have wrapped in a hair net.

Since the hair is mine, it exactly matches. It's the greatest.

"COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE"

MIRACLE FIBERS no longer make headlines in our newspapers. There has been such fantastic progress in the development of synthetic fibers that we have come to take them for granted, in everything from clothing to automobile tires.

But without too much fanfare, modern "miracle fibers" are here to stay in our home furnishings. In addition to the durable, wonderfully washable vinyl materials with their leather-like beauty, such synthetics as nylon and dacron upholstery fabrics are being used in wide variety... and are opening a new era of easy-care beauty.

The modern miracle fibers have brought a new richness of color to upholstery, and they are remarkably easy to clean and restore, as well as being hard wearing. You can, in fact, be surrounded by these fabrics from floor to ceiling... in nylon carpeting, for instance... in draperies... and in your upholstered pieces.

Science has brought new comfort, too, to your furniture, with shape retaining foam padding. If you haven't visited our showroom lately, why not stop in this week... and see all the color, comfort and beauty you've been missing!

There are Guess Ranges...and...there are GAS RANGES and it doesn't take a Ph.D. in home ec. to tell the difference.

You can spot the difference the moment you turn on a burner. With a Gas range you get heat. Instantly. When you turn off the burner, the heat is gone. Instantly. No hangover heat... no guesswork. 1001 shades of precise heat offer you complete cooking control. No guess work. Only a modern Gas range offers so many automatic cooking conveniences.

No guesswork. A Gas range is quick, clean, dependable and attractive. One thing a Gas range isn't... it isn't a guess range. That's for sure.

A delicately timed defense by East and West against South's four spade contract averted a disastrous swing against the United States during a match against Switzerland in a World Bridge Olympiad.

The four spade contract was reached at both tables and, where the Swiss players held the North-South cards, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram with South becoming the declarer.

Arthur Robinson, seated West for the United States, opened the king of clubs in order to inspect the terrain. Robert Jordan, holding the East hand, followed suit with his lowest club, the three. Altho the normal procedure with a doubleton is to high-low when partner leads the king, Jordan felt that it was urgent to cash a heart trick immediately, so he gave his partner a discouraging signal in clubs.

West dutifully shifted to the suit in which his partner had overcalled, and East played the ace of hearts. Jordan returned the eight of clubs to Robinson's ace, and the latter led another club. North ruffed with the ten of spades and East overruffed with the jack to score the setting trick.

The key play of the deal was the heart switch at trick two. If East starts an immediate high-low in clubs inducing his partner to continue clubs — South can discard a heart from dummy on the third round, thereby eliminating his loser in that suit.

At the other table where the American team held the North-South cards, the auction proceeded somewhat differently and North became the declarer at four spades. This simplified the defense considerably. East opened the ace of hearts and, when the king appeared in dummy he made the natural shift to a club, and the final outcome was the same.

125 Children At Story Hour

More than 125 boys and girls attended the initial story hour for children in the primary grades at the Warren Public Library. Mrs. Ellen H. Eberly, Children's Librarian, conducts the weekly story hours on Wednesdays at four o'clock.

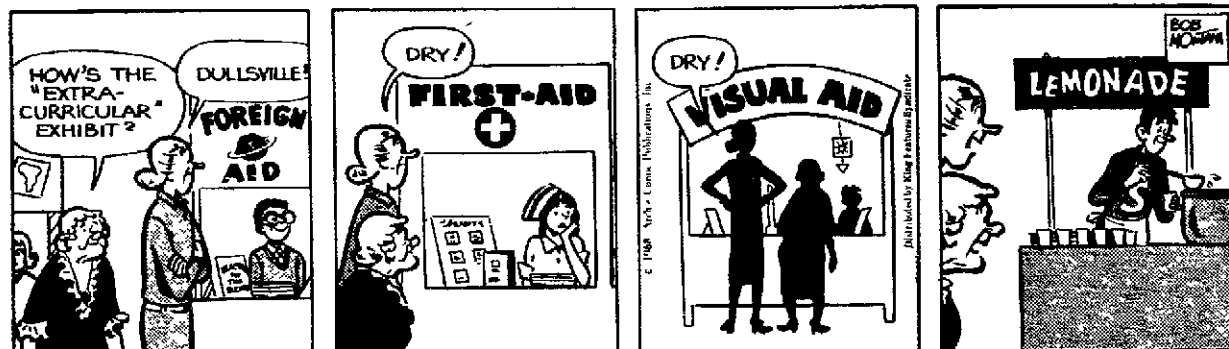

In addition to story telling, next Wednesday's (November 6) story hour will feature the film "Rumpelstiltskin". This is a pantomime production by a group of school children of the Grimm fairy tale about the dwarf who taught the miller's daughter to spin straw into gold. Children in grades one through four are invited to visit the Warren Public Library each Wednesday afternoon and attend story hours.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Prepare your schedule carefully, and be as diligent in carrying out orders as you would expect others to be. Avoid emotionalism, hypersensitivity.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Withdraw from a situation when you are sure your efforts are not effective and or someone else should take the final stand. Fair play for all will net top rewards.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Your efforts now MUST have sound intelligent purpose or havoc will reign. Alertness, mobility of thought will help you to quicker, safer conclusions. Aim to improve in the "little" things.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Listen thoughtfully to comments, but do not answer abruptly or make hasty decisions and, in discussions, leave personalities out!

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Observe advice to Cancer, and add: Do not base acts on whims or fancies. Avoid procrastination, too.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Mixed influences. Do not get into controversy that would lead to chaos, but do discuss calmly, reason out methods, work routine. Be quick to avoid the contention that is pretty general now.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Some joits possible. Let your sense of proportion and discerning judgment guide you. Using these traits, you should arrive at satisfactory conclusions.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—If on time and determined to get your chores and obligations tended post-haste, and with better efforts than ever before, you will have top returns.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Nothing will be entirely easy, but there are many benefits, new favors awaiting conscientious and consistent endeavor. Work for improved changes.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Be slow to criticize — a tendency now. But recognize defects and aim constructively to cooperate with those trying to alter undesirable situations.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Tact and finesse should help you attain ends you could not achieve with force. Shun rumors, seek truths. Use your many talents ably.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Be hasty in neither word nor deed now, or you could regret it. Day has pitfalls which will be seen by those who LOOK and LISTEN.

YOU BORN TODAY? Your active mind is ready for, eager for, attainment. Study, keep learning. Many inventors, famous researchers and leaders were born in Scorpio. Control emotions and desires. Everything must come after a rightly-determined fashion, not in leaps and thus possibly overshoot bounds. Your remarkable powers and subtle strength can be necessary weapons in times of stress, or times of plenty. Develop your talents. Don't scatter your forces or become easily discouraged. Birthdate of: Vivien Leigh, cinema actress.

TOMORROW: Porter's Neck.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

OLYMPIC SEX TESTS
W. writes: What are these sex tests given to female (or allegedly female) athletes who participated in the Olympics? Can't the judges tell by obvious signs? REPLY

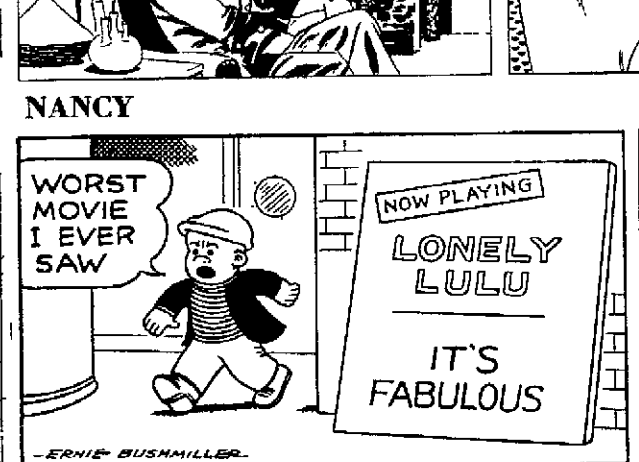

These are chromosome tests involving the secretions obtained from cells, usually on the inside of the mouth. The external signs are not so obvious, especially when these persons have a genetic defect. Some are classified as pseudo or real hermaphrodites and are participating as females when they really are males.

CONGESTED TUESUES
A reader writes: What is congestive heart failure? REPLY

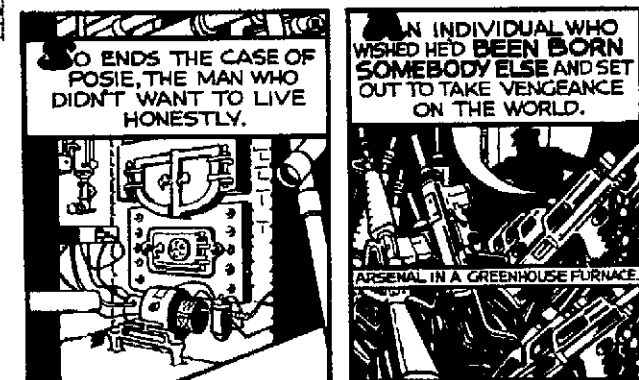

This is another name for dropsy due to heart disease. The failing heart is unable to meet the demands of the body. In congestive failure, the tissues in the legs, liver, and lungs become waterlogged (congested). Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on generalized dropsy.

Duo-pianists Provide Rich Musical Experience

BY WALT ERBLAND
Duo-pianists Melvin Stecher and Norman Horowitz put on a dazzling display of keyboard pyrotechnics for an appreciative audience at Warren Area High School Saturday.

The repertoire for two solo pianos is not the world's largest and although the pieces on the program would not be familiar to many except aficionados of piano duos, they were representative of the names of composers most closely linked with the piano—Schumann, Chopin, Debussy and Rachmaninoff.

The duo's performance of an Andante and Variations in B Flat Major by Schumann was exciting and followed by an early Chopin Rondo offered tempting comparisons between the two contemporaries.

The variations, an exposition of a lovely theme augmented with classical figures and an inlay of secondary harmonies and rhythms, show Schumann to be a lineal descendent of the classicists while the Chopin piece, written before he reached the height of his inimitable style, is a flagrant of cascading arpeggios relieved by simple melodic passages that presaged his establishment as a genius sui generis.

The major work of the evening, a concerto for two pianos, by Walter Piston originally written with orchestration and later rescored by the composer for solo pianos, was a blockbuster of a show piece. However, one's attitude toward blockbusters depends on whether one is dropping them or getting hit by them.

A grand vehicle for a prodigious display of talent, Piston's work leans heavily on the percussive colorations within the scope of the instrument. The first movement offered some interesting examples of theme development and the second was successful in evoking a continuum of mood. The last movement, however, had a slightly ersatz ring and over all the concerto, in the terminology of a school child's exercise, was more show than tell.

In marked contrast was Debussy's En Blanc et Noir which provided musically if not technically the high point of the evening. The artists' execution of the Debussy work skillfully demonstrated that nuance of touch and rhythm can be more evocative than thunder.

The final work was a Fantasy, Opus 5, Suite No. 1 by Rachmaninoff lush and sonorous and easy on the ear.

The program opened with a canonic etude written by Schumann for a now extinct piano equipped with pedals similar to an organ and transcribed for two pianos by Debussy.

Stecher and Horowitz provided an evening of rich musical experience. Unfortunately Warren will have to wait until March for the next Concert Series presentation.

BOWLING SCORES

By DENNY BONAVITA

The recent revision in the TMO system of tabulating bowling scores for the paper has produced some questions. So here's a thumbnail sketch which hopefully will provide some answers.

Under the previous system of recording the five highest scores from each league, it often happened that the members of one league would have a good night with, say, seven 600-plus series; another loop would have a mediocre night, with perhaps a 520 leading the way and 400 series following.

We at the paper would print but five scores from each loop, thereby penalizing the better bowlers in favor of some more mediocre scores. First off, this isn't good news management. In a football game, though center Tommy Smith may play a whale of a ball game, halfback John Jones gets the headlines with his three touchdowns. This is how it's always been, and in fact is how it should be, as the scoring itself is the news value in the contest. And the same reasoning applies to bowling.

Secondly, with the avalanche of late copy we receive, it's been impossible to write a story to go along with the scoring and still meet our predeadline. This has further penalized the good bowler, while also neglecting the average bowler who perhaps picks up the 7-10 split or bowls 100 pins above his series average.

So, we've established cutoff scores of 540 for men and 470 for women, and will print all scores above this plateau. Additionally, we will print the team results and team standings once a week as a group. This will allow team members and their families to follow their standing, and will also satisfy the sponsors' understandable desire to get some recognition for shelling out that sponsor's fee.

The system is by no means a perfect one, but it's the best we could implement. Its purpose is solely to provide better bowling coverage for area keggers, and grant recognition to those who excel at the sport.

I'm keeping a mailbag file of letters from readers, and so far the comments are running 50-50. So, I'm inviting anyone and everyone to write a note here if they have any comments, pro or con, before the system becomes permanent in the middle of the month. Phone calls don't upset me at all, but unfortunately, I don't always remember the number I get in a night, while I can always recount the letters. So I'm hoping to hear from area bowlers, and I'll be happy to give serious consideration to any ideas readers may have for improving our coverage of what is a booming recreational and sporting activity for Warren County citizens.

And to the league secretaries and alley managers, we'll add a postscript: please see that the league standings and scores get to us by Monday night, and we'll be happy to print them in Wednesday's paper.

SHORT SPORTS: Bill Pasquino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pasquino, 22 Conewango Ave., Warren, is a senior fullback on Millersville State College's varsity this season.

A former Warren resident is well on his way to a record in viewing World Series games. Emmett Jennings, who witnessed his first Series in Chicago in 1907, hasn't missed one since 1920. The Arizona resident, now in his 80's, chalked up his 50th October Classic this fall in Detroit and St. Louis.

Erie East High has a prime college prospect on the gridiron this season. . . and he weighs but 166 pounds. He's an end by the name of Bob Robson, but what really has the scouts drooling is his kicking ability. He's missed but four extra points thus far this season, and kicks the football out of Erie Stadium with a regularity that's disturbing to game officials.

You'll pay a little more for Cleveland Indians' baseball tickets next season. . . $3.50 for box seats, $3.00 for reserved seats, $2.00 for general admission and a buck for a bleacher seat. Children's prices are $1.00 less than for adults.

Gannon College's holiday basketball tournament, which drew a good Warren County following last year, will feature Brooklyn St. Francis, Manhattan College and Mt. St. Mary's in addition to the Knights this season. The first game is set for Dec. 28.

Port Allegany's Bob Christensen is a happy coach indeed. His Gators edged Smethport 25-20 Saturday for their second straight unbeaten season and an 18-game victory skein, plus the Border Conference title and the third Allegheny Mountain Conference championship.

The projected cloud seeding experiment to reduce snowfall in the Buffalo area has been meeting intense resistance from farmers, hotel proprietors and sportsmen as well as ski resort operators. It seems that the federal government is going to use airplanes to "seed" snow clouds when a certain type of storm appears imminent. The theory is that this "seeding" will cause dispersal of the snow over a wider area and alleviate the massive snowfalls the belt along Lake Erie has suffered in years past.

THICK AS TREES

Seven Pass Defenders Muffle Redskins' Attack

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — If Washington's Sonny Jurgensen had time to steal a glance beyond the savage pass rush, the Vikings secondary Sunday was as crowded as a Minnesota pine forest.

There were occasions when Jurgensen looked, if he had a moment, and saw no line backers—but seven defensive backs.

It was Minnesota Coach Bud Grant's way of containing the Redskins passing attack and it worked into a 27-14 victory which was a shutout until the last minute and 48 seconds.

The defense was designed by Vikings secondary coach Jim Carr, who played with Jurgensen at Washington before joining the Minnesota coaching staff. Minnesota safety Paul Krause, who came to the Vikings in an off-season trade from Washington, said that the defense—used mostly on obvious third down passing situations—completely befuddled Jurgensen.

"Jurg thought we were playing a zone when actually we were in single coverage," said Krause, who intercepted one pass.

"After the game, Jurg came up to me and asked me what we did. He still didn't know."

Speedsters Bobby Bryant and Charlie West came in for the outside linebackers and Dale Hackbart took the spot at middle guard in the defense.

The off-beat defense began from the start—five backs and only two linebackers—because of the passing reputation Jurgensen brought to town.

The Vikings used the two linebackers except on rare occasions. When along yardage situation faced the Redskins the linebackers took the bench in favor of two more backs.

Horse Show At Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Olympic gold medalist Bill Steinkraus of Noroton, Conn., will lead the United States equestrian team against four other countries in the international division of the National Horse Show which opens an eight-day run in Madison Square Garden Tuesday.

The 42-year-old Steinkraus, an editor with a book publishing firm, has been a mainstay of the team since 1951. He had been scheduled to ride Snowbound, the horse who carried him to the Olympic title.

But the mount came down lame after the individual Olympic event and did not go in the team competition.

Coach Bert de Nemethy said he would make a decision on whether to use Snowbound just before the first international event.

"I will talk it over with Bill and Whitney Stone (president of the USET) before any decision is made," said de Nemethy.

If Snowbound is kept on the sidelines, Steinkraus will ride Blue Plum and Bold Minstrel. He will be joined by Frank and Mary Chapot of Wallpack, N.J., Kathy Kusner of Arlington, Va., and Carol Hofmann of North Branch, N.J.

Squads from Canada, which won the team gold medal in Mexico City, Great Britain, Australia and Brazil will oppose the U.S.

Little League Must Pay Tax

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The Lycoming County commissioners have ruled the Little League Baseball, Inc., is a tax exempt organization, but must pay real estate taxes because it is a nonprofit charitable organization.

The commissioners, acting as the county's Tax Assessment Board, made the ruling Saturday following hearings on Little League's claim that it should not have to pay taxes because it is a nonprofit charitable organization.

During the hearings, the Little League withdrew six properties from its claim and agreed they should be taxed. The properties are houses used as residences for visiting officials.

Warren College Student Wins TMO Grid Contest

With only one more week left in the T-M-O football contest the area fans are becoming very keen on guessing the right winners. Now that the teams have shown what they can do and how well they can keep on doing it, there doesn't appear to be any problem in picking the right winners in the seventh T-M-O football contest of the season.

It was an unbelievable week as can be exemplified by the winner who picked 19 of the 20 games right. Doug Poust, a Warren resident, and a student at the University of Pittsburgh beat out Anthony Pirillo who also picked 19 right. Poust wrapped up the win when it came to the tie breaker as he gave Denver the winning nod while Pirillo picked Boston. The final result of the tie breaker was Denver 35, Boston 14.

Poust is the 20 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Poust of 611 Homestead st. and is a junior enrolled as a Biology major in Pitt's Liberal Arts school. His only mistake on the contest was in picking the football kings (Green Bay) to beat Chicago.

Pirillo missed the Pittsburgh-Atlanta game as he just couldn't see a Steeler victory. When it came time to figure out a third place winner things really got bad.

Out of the seventeen people who missed only two, picking 18 right, Tom Wolfe emerged the winner by use of the tie breaker.

Wolfe was only four points off the tie breaker score as he picked Denver 34, Boston 17, to edge out the 16 others with 18 right. Wolfe is 12-years-old and lives at 506 Buchanan st. the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolfe.

The only games Wolfe missed were the Chicago-Green Bay contest and the UCLA-Tennessee clash.

Both Poust and Pirillo picked all of the high school and all of the college games correctly. Wolfe evened out the score by picking all the high school games correctly and missing one in the pros and one in the college division.

Overall everyone that entered the contest this week did their best ever. There were 34 people with 17 right, 83 people with 16 right and 87 people with 15 right. Out of the 402 entries this means that over 50 per cent picked more than 15 correctly.

In hitting the new high for the most right, we also hit a new low. One entry, no names mentioned, only had two of the 20 games picked correctly. This tops the former low of three and will naturally be recorded in the contest annals.

The college division appeared to be the easiest as 78 people picked all eight college games correctly. Only 12 entries had every high school game right and five entries even had all seven pro games right which is amazing considering how topsy-turvy the pros play.

Senators To Sell For $10,500,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Minnesota buyers, one the treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, have agreed to pay $10.5 million for the Washington Senators baseball franchise, the Washington Post reported Monday.

The Post said Robert E. Short, the party official, and Jeno F. Paulucci, a food-chain executive, have agreed after three weeks of negotiations to meet the price set by the team's co-owners, James H. Lemon and the estate of James M. Johnson.

It said only minor points in the sale are now at issue and that agreement is near on the disposition of the $1.05 million cash payment the club received last month from the American League's new Seattle and Kansas City teams.

But it said completion of the deal has been delayed by fund raiser Short's involvement in the presidential campaign.

The Post gave this version of the status of the proposed sale: Short plans to take over as president of the club Dec. 1 and will move quickly to replace General Manager George Selkirk, whose contract extends through the 1970 season.

A request by Lemon that the Washington franchise not be moved to another city was agreed to, but his request that he be permitted to retain a 10 per cent share of the club met opposition from Short and Paulucci, who want full ownership. Short, 50, former owner of the Lakers of the National Basketball Association in Minneapolis and Los Angeles, has several Minneapolis business enterprises, including the ownership of motels, hotels and a motor freight line.

Paulucci, also 50, is of Duluth, Minn. In 1966, he sold his interest in the Chun King Corp., for $63 million to the R.J. Reynolds Co.

Pipers One-Point Victors In ABA

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Minnesota Pipers staved off a last ditch rally by the Indiana Pacers Monday night for a 121-120 American Basketball Association victory.

Jim Rayl, who scored 11 points to help Indiana rally from a 15 point deficit in the last six minutes, was wide with a desperation shot from the three point area as the horn sounded. Rayl had hit two three point baskets from beyond 25 feet in the final surge.

Connie Hawkins scored 42 points for the Pipers, who played only six men. Roger Brown topped Indiana with 31, while Rayl finished with 13.

Minnesota scored 13 straight points in the last three minutes of the first half, overcoming a 57-51 deficit to lead 64-57 at the intermission.

Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita Lead NHL Point Parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, the Chicago Black Hawks' dynamic scoring duo, share the National Hockey League individual point lead today after three full weeks of season play.

Hull, the NHL goal-scoring king for the past three years, has collected nine goals and as many assists in nine games for a total of 18 points, according to official league figures released today.

Mikita, bidding for his third consecutive point championship, has scored five goals and set up 13 in one more game than his teammate.

Bob Nevin of the New York

Rangers trails the co-leaders by one point and leads the goal-scoring with 10 in 10 games. He is the only player in the league who has posted at least one point in each of his club's starts.

Lose Glass

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Glass, an 11-year veteran defensive end with Cleveland, will be out at least six weeks with two cracked ribs, the National Football League Browns announced Monday.

Glass was injured Sunday in the Browns' victory over San Francisco and X-rays revealed the fractures.

Casper Says Pro Golfers Play But Two PGA Events

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Billy Casper, professional golfer's top money winner this year, said Monday the newly formed breakaway pro golf organization would play only two tournaments on the Professional Golf Association tour next year.

The winner of last week's $100,000 Lucky International Open said only the Bob Hope Desert Classic and the PGA championship itself would be played by the top touring pros who are feuding with the PGA and have formed their own group, the American Professional Golfers.

"Those are the only tournaments we have contracts to play in," Casper said. "We've said we would honor existing contracts. All the other tournaments have the opportunity to sign with the APG."

Casper's remarks indicated all the other top tournaments, including the Bing Crosby tournament in Pebble Beach, Calif., in January, would have to sign with the APG if it wanted the participation of most of the country's best-known golfers.

"The APG will make a statement soon," Casper said. "A lot of things are in the works right now."

Kathy Leads Gals' Golf

CINCINNATI (AP) — With four tournaments to go, Kathy Whitworth has taken over the lead in both official and total money winnings on the 1968 Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

LPGA headquarters here announced today that Miss Whitworth's $3,300 victory at Palm Springs, Calif., Sunday boosted her total official winnings to $42,829. She had won eight tournaments.

Carol Mann, the previous leader, won only $342 at Palm Springs and now has official winnings of $42,871 with 10 tournament victories.

When the unofficial money is added in, Miss Whitworth has $53,502 and Miss Mann has $51,611.

The 10 leading official money winners with number of tournaments won:

Kathy Whitworth, 8, $42,829; Carol Mann, 10, $42,871; Sandra Haynie, 1, $25,309; Marilyn Smith, 1, $15,117; Mickey Wright, 4, $17,147; Clifford Ann Creed, 0, $16,644; Sandra Spuzich, 0, $16,376; Shirley Englehorn, 1, $15,579; Sandra Palmer, 0, $14,870 and Betsy Rawls, 1, $13,140.

Chisox Shrink Park Next Year?

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are contemplating placing a chain-link fence from foul line to foul line in the outfield to reduce the size of their expansive park.

The plan was disclosed Monday by Ed Short, Sox vice president, at the Chicago's American Quarterback Club.

Short said the fence would reduce the foul line distances from 352 to 335 feet, bring in the power alleys from 375 to 370 and center field from 415 to 395.

Frisco Tips Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors used a three-pronged attack to defeat the Phoenix Suns 119-108 in a National Basketball Association game Monday night.

Rudy LaRusso, Nate Thurmond, each with 28 points and Jeff Mullins, with 26, led the Warriors to a six-point halftime lead which was expanded in the final two periods.

Phoenix' scoring was led by Dick Van Arsdale and Gail Goodrich with 29 and 27, respectively.

The Suns came back in the third quarter to tie the score at 72-72, but nine straight points by the Warriors put the game out of reach. The winners built their lead in the closing minutes.

College Player Dies

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Brian Truhn, a 21-year-old Ithaca College football player, died Monday of a cerebral hemorrhage apparently suffered during a game last Saturday.

Truhn collapsed while sitting on the bench during Ithaca's game against Brockport State. Films of the game did not show Truhn receiving an injury while he was playing.

Truhn, a senior majoring in physical education and a dean's list student, was playing his first year of college football. Ithaca Coach Jim Butterfield had described him as "the finest all-around back we have."

ONE VOTE FOR HODGES

By JOSEPH DURSO

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK—Gil Hodges has quit smoking, climbing stairs, watching the late show and gaining weight. But, at the age of 44, just six weeks after he suffered a heart attack, he has not quit managing the New York Mets—and doesn't think he will.

"If I felt for one minute that I couldn't do my job as well as before," he said today, "or if I felt it might hurt me—I wouldn't attempt it. I'd pull in the strings right now. Even if there were a doubt in my mind, or a doubt in the doctor's mind that he had implanted in mine, I wouldn't think about coming back."

The pain in Hodges' chest started six weeks ago tomorrow. He had felt uncomfortable for a few fretful days while the New York Mets were in Philadelphia. But now in the second inning of a game in Atlanta, the pain increased. He left this dugout and lay down on a training table in the locker room, where he was helped by Gus Mauch, the team's trainer. Mauch had suffered a heart attack in 1960 while working for the Yankees.

The next day, "a mild heart attack" was detected, and the cozy world of Gilbert Ray Hodges suddenly turned upside down. His wife Joan flew south and has been with him since then, and Dr. Linton Bishop added Hodges to his roster of celebrated heart patients. Ten days ago, Gill and Joan flew to St. Petersburg, and today he was on the telephone reporting that his world was back in focus.

"I had doubts about the future when I was in the hospital," he was saying. "When I was told I'd had a heart attack, I couldn't believe it. But Dr. Bishop convinced me that everything could be normal again. He's a cautious man, too—I guess all heart doctors are cautious men. But he tells me I should be able to do anything I ever did before."

Even manage the amazing Mets? Even fly into Houston at 3 o'clock in the morning after a night game in Chicago? Even trot around a national league that has expanded from Montreal to San Diego?

"He put no qualification on things," the hero of Flatbush said in his low, slow, calm voice. "The period now is very important, the first six to eight weeks. The heart needs time to heal, to develop scarred tissue."

"I can't climb stairs now and our house in Brooklyn is a split level, so John Murphy suggested coming down here to avoid the stairs and to rest in the sunshine. I can't walk fast, but I'm stepping it up. No swimming, but then I don't believe in swimming for baseball players—or managers. And I'm not much of a beach bound, anyway."

"I quit smoking completely, and got a bonus. The X-rays in the hospital showed 'fingerprints' on my lungs. Now they've cleared up. I've also lost 18 pounds and I'm down to 205 now. Dr. Bishop wants me to get down around 200."

"Every morning Joan drives me out to the Mets minor league camp here, Whitey Herzog and Gus put a couple of chairs behind the screen and we watch the game—until I get tired. I've stuck it out for one complete game, but usually leave around the sixth inning."

Nobody has suggested yet that Hodges leave Met games in the sixth inning next year in order to preserve his sanity as well as his health. But it's an idea. His advice actually is running heavily the other way—despite some quins that have been expressed.

"I talked to Birdie Tebbetts and Danny Murtagh down here," he said, "and they both returned to managing after heart attacks. They figure you learn to live after one."

Hodges is a slavish worker, and one of the things he's already learning is to stay loose. When the national league draft was held in Montreal three weeks ago, he got a play-by-play description in Atlanta. Murphy would telephone him after every round and discuss strategy. Hodges was surprised that Philadelphia did not protect Tony Gonzalez, that Pittsburgh did not keep Donn Clendenon, that the Mets lost Jerry Morales so early. He was surprised—but not emboldened.

When Murphy goes to San Francisco for the winter baseball meetings Nov. 30, Hodges similarly will stay home. He may be exercising in a gymnasium by then and jogging a bit. But he'll be spared the weary bustle of the convention.

He and his wife are unusually close. They met while he was playing first base for the Dodgers, in the days when a congregation would say prayers for him during a batting slump. She influences him heavily. He calls her every night on the road. Now they call their four children in Brooklyn every day from Florida.

"The doctor has never come to Joan and me," he said, "and told us we had a critical decision to face concerning our future in baseball. He's told me how to live. It's an individual thing—if you have something you love to do. You couldn't do it if it's going to hurt you. But in the spring I expect to be doing what I love to do—if they want me."

They want him, all right. The most encouraging sign nobody is just coddling him is that his wife is beating him regularly in gin and scrabble again.

Arthur Daley, who regularly writes this column, is on vacation.

Colts Play Harder Without Unitas

NEW YORK (AP) — "We used to depend on John (Unitas). We put all our faith in him. If we were down 10 points with two minutes to go we figured he'd do it. Now we realize each man has to give a little more."

John Mackey, Baltimore's fine tight end, was trying to explain the Colts' success Monday, without the services of Unitas, considered by many the greatest quarterback in the game.

WARREN COUNTY HAS THE BIRDS

Most hunters agree that the wild turkey is Pennsylvania's most difficult animal to bag. Helping to prove that the Warren County area is the best spot in the state to hunt the gobblers is Byron Gillfillan, 207 4th ave. e., and the 18½ pound turkey he called into shotgun range in Elk Township on Friday afternoon. Kicker For Hire-Please?

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Wanted: Competent field goal kicker; good pay for seasonal work from July to (hopefully) mid-January.

Although the Green Bay Packers are not considering publishing the above ad, the need for a consistent kicker is very apparent.

The Packers, defending National Football League and Super Bowl champions, slipped below .500 again Sunday when Mac Percival's free kick with 26 seconds left gave the Chicago Bears a 13-10 victory.

The loss dropped Green Bay to a 3-4-1 record and a tie for last place in the tight Central Division race.

Since Don Chandler retired following the Super Bowl, the Packers' kicking game has suffered. Sunday, it was atrocious.

Erroll Mann, the latest of many Green Bay kickers this season, missed two field goals from 29 and 44 yards out. Chuck Mercein, a running back, missed one of the two he tried.

Any one of the three missed field goals might have changed the entire game if it had split the uprights.

Parents, Players To Attend Booster Meet

Warren's Sports Boosters will get to meet and honor the players and parents of the Dragons' football and golf teams at Wednesday's 8:30 p.m. meeting in the High School cafeteria.

President John Smith extended an invitation to all parents and sports fans to turn out for the meeting, which will feature films of Warren's last 1968 game, last Saturday's contest with Bradford.

had a little skull session with the general manager recently and they decided that the coach had coached long enough.

Of course, the conversation was made simple and genial by the fact that the coach and GM were the same man—energetic Wren Blair.

Blair has stepped out of the coaching job and will concentrate on the general manager's job from now on. John Muckler, waiting in the wings for over a year, takes over the North Stars' coaching reins Wednesday night.

"I just don't believe any one man has the stamina to handle both coaching and the general manager's job," explains Blair. "I'm satisfied with the progress we have made in two years but my job of building a team is only half done. Now I want to get to the other half."

Blair is the third combination GM-coach to cut the job in half in the last six months. First there was Sid Abel in Detroit and Emile Francis in New York, Toronto's Punch Imlach and Scotty Bowman of St. Louis are the only men still doing both jobs.

Blair hired Muckler before the North Stars played their first game last year and made it clear from the start that he was grooming him to take over the coaching job.

School Board Names Coaches

Ronald Firestone and Tony Scordo were approved as coaches at Beatty Junior High School during Monday's Warren County School District board meeting.

Firestone will serve as assistant basketball coach, while Scordo will head the intramural program at the school.

The resignation of Albert Fulton as Beatty Intramural coach was accepted by the board.

Still unfilled is the Warren Area High School head track coach vacancy.

Small Stadium Is Patriots' Woe

BOSTON (AP) — "If I love the city of Boston," said Patriots' owner Billy Sullivan, "someone else shouldn't pay for my affection."

But they are. And that's one of the major reasons the next several months are likely to be critical for professional football in Boston, a city that offers the Patriots the lowest seating capacity of any team in either league (37,000) and currently has no firm plans for a new stadium.

What that means is that others are paying for Sullivan's affection, by the amount of money they take out as a visitors' share of the gate receipts in comparison to what the Patriots take when they visit the bigger drawing cities in the American Football League.

At this moment every one is a bigger draw. Only 18,304 fans were at Fenway Park Sunday to see the punchless Patriots—the lowest attendance of the year for any of the 26 teams in professional football. In three games at Fenway, the Patriots, with a 3-5 record, have drawn just 71,888.

"I think you have to know that I feel that with ideal seating and parking I wouldn't trade this franchise for any in pro football," Sullivan said. "But I frankly think this is the year we have to move ahead on the stadium or we're in trouble."

"There are two things forcing me to say that: First, the resolution passed at our spring meeting in Atlanta and second, a moral feeling. If I go to dinner with you 10 times, I don't want you picking up the tab 10 times. That's been what's happening."

If going to dinner and having someone else pay the check is one thing bothering Sullivan, the resolution passed in May certainly isn't going to help his digestion.

The resolution, passed unanimously by NFL and AFL owners—and that includes Sullivan

—reads: "In implementing the agreement between the leagues, which now provides that any new franchise must play in a stadium with a capacity in the vicinity of 50,000, the leagues have now unanimously agreed to require by 1970 that all member clubs meet the same condition..."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle

Dodger VP Ailing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fresno Thompson, vice president and general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, has been hospitalized again, the National League baseball club announced Monday.

Thompson is in the intensive care ward of St. Jude's Hospital in nearby Fullerton. Doctors have ordered no telephone calls or visitors.

Thompson's ailment was not determined.

has said how the owners choose to implement that resolution is strictly up to them.

3 In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of IVAN JAMES (JIMMY) BAILEY, who died November 4, 1967.

There is no death! An angel-form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread;
And bears our best-beloved things away,
And then we call them "dead."

Born unto that undying life,
They leave us but to come again;
With joy we welcome them the same,
Except their sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life there is no dead!
Judy, Mom and Dad,
Brothers and Sisters

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of PAUL ZOCK, JR., who passed away 6 years ago, November 2, 1962. Many happy hours once enjoyed, How sweet the memory still, But death has left a loneliness The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by friends & family.

Several Escape Injury in Mishap

Several persons escaped injury Sunday in a four car chain reaction accident in the borough of Youngsville.

The accident occurred at 5:15 p.m., according to state police of the local substation, when a car driven by Howard E. Cady, N.Clymer, N.Y., struck the rear of a stopped vehicle owned by David M. Herron, 724 W. Eighth st., Erie, Pa. The impact of the crash forced the Herron vehicle to strike the rear of a car owned by Arthur E. Simpson, Wattsburg, Pa., which in turn struck the rear of a car owned by Leah G. Schlup, Westleyville.

Damages totalled $1,400 in the mishap which occurred at the intersection of Route 6 and Route 27, police reported.

New Rotarian Describes Sylvania Plastic Operations

ROTARIANS HEAR ABOUT SYLVANIA PLASTICS

Raymond Benson, manager Sylvania plastics and assembly operations, was Monday noon speaker at Warren Rotary Club. From left: Standing: The Rev. Richard H. Baker, welcomed

By FRANKLIN R. HOFF
Ray Benson, manager of plastics and assembly operations of Sylvania Electric Products, Warren, a subsidiary of General Telephone, addressed the Warren Rotary Club at its Monday Noon meeting at the Blue Manor, on his department.

The Rev. Richard H. Baker, rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church, was welcomed as a new member, Baker had previously been a member of Rotary Clubs in Westfield, N.Y., and in Guam, where he served for three years.

William W. Wolfersberger outlined a proposed travel lecture series, which the club voted to undertake.

Warren Area High School senior guests introduced were Christopher Lytle, son of Joseph and Kathleen Lytle, 22 Franklin; and Grover Cleveland, son of Lloyd and Dorothy Cleveland, 15 Cleveland Circle.

President Everett Borg announced next week's program would concern the International Rotary Foundation and its world-wide program.

Raymond Benson described the various processes of making moulded plastic products in the Warren plastics and assembly division. A native Pennsylvanian, born in Kane, Benson grew up in Jamestown, N.Y. He has been with Sylvania for the past eight and one-half years.

In the plastics and assembly operation there are a total of 220,000 square feet of manufacturing space utilized: 110,000 square feet in Warren, 60,000 sq. feet at Titusville assembly plant, and 50,000 sq. feet at the Brookville plant.

Total employment in the operation is about 830, 500 of these are employed in the Warren Plastic plant.

Most of the plastic molding machines are automatic. They cost between $25,000 and $45,000 per unit.

An idea of the magnitude of the local plastics operation is given by the fact that about four million pounds of plastic raw materials are used per year here.

Among the plastic items made here are radio tube bases, fluorescent lamp holders of many types, contact parts for computers, flash cube covers, razor blade cases, and many other types of plastic parts.

Benson mentioned that right now Sylvania's output of flash cube covers alone runs between four and five million each month.

It was announced that, instead of the regular noon meeting Monday, November 18, there would be about six fireside meetings at homes of Rotarians.

Man Killed By Off-Duty Patrolman

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A man has been shot to death by an off-duty patrolman after a brief chase that started when, police say, the victim tried to pick the officer's pockets.

Authorities said Patrolman Thomas Gledhill, a nine-year veteran of the police force, was asleep in his car, parked in the East Liberty section, Sunday morning and awoke to find a man going through his pockets.

The man, identified as Nelson Cooper, 21, fled with Gledhill in pursuit. Gledhill caught Cooper around the corner and, according to police, Cooper started attacking the officer.

Cooper was shot in the chest and died Sunday night at West Penn Hospital.

Police said they took Gledhill's wallet from Cooper.

Killed in Crash

A 23-year-old Mt. Jewett, Pa. man was pronounced dead on arrival at Kane Community Hospital about 11:30 p.m. Sunday following a one car crash on Route 6 in the borough of Mr. Jewett.

David C. Conn, part owner of the Thompson & Co. hardware firm, Mt. Jewett, apparently lost control of his car and smashed into a cement railing on an overhead bridge, according to police.

Conn was alone in the car which was demolished.

Vietnam Every American wants peace. We must end this war in a way that discourages aggression and prevents future wars.

Foreign Affairs The judgments of history can bestow no honor greater than the title of peace-maker. It is this honor — this destiny that beckons America, the chance to lead the world at last out of turmoil and onto that plateau of peace man has dreamed about since the dawn of time.

The Draft After Vietnam, eliminate Selective Service completely. Change to an all-volunteer armed force, with better pay so that it becomes an attractive career.

The Pueblo When respect for America falls so low that a fourth-rate military power like North Korea dares to seize an American naval vessel on the high seas, then it's time for new leadership in Washington.

The People America became great because for 190 years we have recognized that progress is achieved not through government doing more for people, but through people doing more for themselves.

Rising Crime In recent years crime in this country has grown nine times as fast as the population. We must take the offensive against criminal forces and rebuild respect for law across this country.

Order and Progress Let us have order in America, not the order that suppresses dissent and discourages change but the order which guarantees the right to dissent and provides the basis for peaceful change and progress.

False Promises We've had enough of big promises and little action. The time has come for honest government in the United States.

Inflation The cost of living is rising at its fastest rate since 1951. More government spending now would only add to inflation, hurting the people it tried to help.

Farm Crisis Enlarge the farmer's opportunity to manage his own affairs and give him a greater voice in shaping his own future.

Black Capitalism Black Americans do not want more government programs which perpetuate dependency—they want a piece of the action. Let government use its tax and credit policies to enlist the greatest engine of progress — American private enterprise.

THE HARRIS SURVEY

By LOUIS HARRIS

Special Late Report

Humphrey broke through to a 43 to 40 per cent lead over Nixon in a nationwide Harris Survey conducted Sunday. Wallace received 13 per cent and 4 per cent were undecided. If the undecided are allocated by voter dispositions Humphrey would lead Nixon 45 to 41 with Wallace at 14. A heavy turnout would favor Humphrey.

This 5 point shift from polls taken Friday and Saturday showed Humphrey gains previously measured in the East spreading to all regions, with Nixon running strongest in the Midwest. It was based on a probability sample of 1,206 voters with a statistical margin of error of 3 to 4 points plus or minus, making the election "too close to call" in this highly volatile year.

If the trend continued, however, it would indicate a potential majority for Humphrey in the electoral college.

In the closing stages of the 1968 campaign, the vote for third-party candidate George Wallace has fallen off sharply in both the North and South, declining from 21 per cent in mid-September to 12 per cent in a survey taken last Friday and Saturday.

By 55 to 28 per cent, the public agreed that "President Johnson was right to halt the bombings of North Vietnam." The initial impact of the Vietnam developments resulted in a marginal advantage to Hubert Humphrey. In late October, he trailed Nixon by six points in voters' judgments on his ability to handle the Vietnam question. In this latest survey, Mr. Humphrey drew even his Republican opponent on this score and maintained a two-point lead on "working for peace."

The net effect of these two major changes was to narrow the contest for president 72 hours before the voting was to begin. Nixon's nationwide total was 42 per cent compared with 40 per cent for Humphrey, with Wallace at 12 per cent, and 6 per cent still undecided.

Allowing for a margin of error of 3 or 4 points in a probability sample of 2,559 likely voters, these results throw in doubt the final outcome of the actual popular vote, making this election "too close to call." Here is the trend of the past four Harris surveys:

PRESIDENTIAL RACE

	NIXON	HUMPHREY	WALLACE	NOT SURE
Nov. 1-2	42	40	12	6
Oct. 27-28	40	37	16	7
Oct. 9-11	40	35	18	7
Sept. 11-13	39	31	21	9

These overall trends, however, tended to blur the significant regional shifts which were occurring as election day approached. Thus, the regional trends seemed to reduce Nixon's chances to win a clear majority of 270 electoral votes. Nixon was widening his lead in the Middle West and West, while Humphrey was surging in the industrial East, where a few states cast a large number of electoral votes. Here is the trend by region:

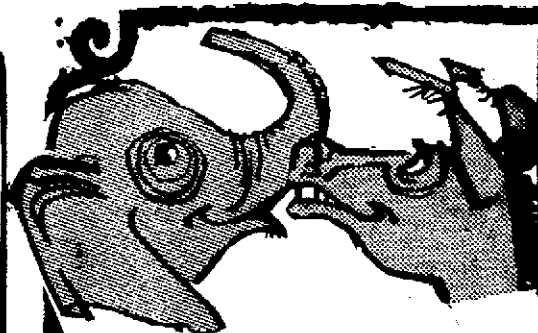

REGIONAL TREND

	Nov. 1 - 2	Oct. 27 - 28
EAST
Humphrey	46	40
Nixon	38	42
Wallace	7	8
Not sure	9	10
MIDWEST
Humphrey	39	42
Nixon	49	45
Wallace	8	11
Not sure	4	2
SOUTH
Humphrey	33	30
Nixon	33	30
Wallace	30	34
Not sure	4	6
WEST
Humphrey	38	37
Nixon	49	45
Wallace	8	12
Not sure	5	6

The regional pattern becomes significant in terms of the electoral vote, although such popular voting percentages are not a proper measure of the outcome state by state. It seemed probable, however, that Nixon would pick up substantial electoral support in the west and the midwest. But Humphrey could score enough gains in the East and the industrial Midwest to keep Nixon from going over the top in electoral votes. Perhaps the most significant development is that both Nixon and Humphrey passed Wallace on Friday and Saturday in the percentages in the South. Both major party candidates were tied at 33 per cent apiece. This could mean that either Humphrey or Nixon might pick up more electoral votes in the South and border states than was previously anticipated. Whether this loosening up of southern votes could offset Nixon losses in the East or Humphrey losses in the Midwest and West, remained to be seen.

As the Wallace vote declined, it was moving selectively toward both Nixon and Humphrey. Among trade union members, for example, Wallace slipped from 24 to 12 per cent, while Humphrey moved from 37 to 49 per cent of that vote. On the other hand, among grade-school educated whites, Wallace dropped from 25 to 16 per cent, and Nixon rose from 26 to 31 per cent. The number who view Wallace as an "extremist" has vaulted from 51 to 69 per cent since September.

Working for further Humphrey gains as election day approached was a polarization of the vote by political party affiliation. Nixon's support among Republicans had risen from 73 to 82 per cent. However, support among Democrats had gone up from 53 per cent in September to 66 per cent as of last Saturday evening. This thrust of Democrats to return to the fold was particularly strong among union members, Catholics, Jewish, and Negro voters located in the big cities. In addition, the undecided vote was made up dominantly of groups where Humphrey had picked up his largest gains. Yet Nixon appeared to be clinging to his narrow overall lead on the strength of the deep undercurrent that it is "time for a change" and a three-point lead over Humphrey as a man who would "inspire confidence personally in the White House."
